

Ice storm drops chill factor to -58

A rain, sleet and snow storm swept in to the Quad-City area Monday night, followed by plunging temperatures that sent the chill factor to -58 by early Tuesday morning.

The mercury hit -4 at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Freezing temperatures which froze a Tuesday afternoon rain and snowfall covered area streets and highways with ice, creating havoc among motorists at Tuesday night's rush hour.

The mercury began falling at 1 p.m. Tuesday from a high of 34 degrees and at one point dropped 11 degrees within an hour. It continued to fall during the evening and night hours and by midnight was 4. The mercury hit the zero mark at 2 a.m. and continued its downward trend.

A rash of accidents, most of them minor, resulted from the ice-covered highways and were numerous during the rush hour that police were running several hours behind in making calls.

At one point, state police of Illinois and Missouri both advised motorists involved in accidents that if there were no injuries and their cars were drivable, they should exchange information and go on their way as it would be hours before police could answer calls.

Public and parochial schools in the area were closed because of the cold and the fact the buses had the difficult time on ice-covered roads. Schools were closed in Granite City, Venice and Madison, and since Thursday-Abraham Lincoln's birthday is a school holiday, they will remain closed until Friday.

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville was closed as was Scott Air Force Base near O'Fallon in St. Clair County which limited activities to essentials.

"We Department crews in Granite City, Madison and Venice worked throughout Monday and Tuesday nights to keep streets open as much as possible."

Lionel Portell, Granite City street superintendent, said three crews of men worked both nights operating the city's three snow plows and in salting and chindering slippery intersections.

Portell said the three crews used a combination of salt and cinders on slippery streets. Although the snow plows helped remove snow as it drifted in the heavy winds, they were ineffective against the coating of ice on many streets.

The storm hit the area Monday evening in the form of wet snow. High temperatures kept highways and most streets open during the night and Tuesday morning, when motorists had to combat only wet pavements and, in some places, a drizzling rain.

Four inches of snow fell throughout Monday night, according to the Chain of Rocks locks where weather records are maintained for the Army Corps of Engineers. This was equivalent to 30 of an inch of precipitation.

As temperatures began falling Tuesday afternoon, more rain fell, later changing to snow which continued throughout much of the night.

County sewer open to tap-ons

By GARY SCHNEIDER of the Press-Record

The dreams of nearly a quarter of a century—dreams of sanitary sewers in Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships—became a reality yesterday, despite Mother Nature stepping in with all her fury.

The first user of the new sewers, Pre-Coat Metals, made the connections of its sewers to the county's new sanitary sewers at 2 p.m. yesterday and other businesses are making final preparations to go on the sewer line.

The Madison County Board, in a special meeting Tuesday morning, hurried the final obstacle which had been delaying the use of the completed county sewer system, passing an agreement with Granite City on treatment rates, and by Tuesday afternoon, six individual tap-on permits already had been granted by the sewer district.

William Theolke of the Chain of Rocks Motel in Mitchell was the first to obtain a tap permit from Gene Futch, superintendent of the new sewer district, Tuesday afternoon. Issued a short time later were permits for the Canal Motel in Mitchell, for a residence connected to the Canal Motel, for three homes in the Benjamin Subdivision and for two homes in Sunny Dell Acres.

"We took in $290 in tap-on inspection (fees) yesterday. It sure is good to see money come in the front door instead of going out the back door," Futch commented.

The new Pre-Coat Metals plant on Route 3 north of West Ponton Road, which has been under construction since building without a sewer outlet for boiler wastes, obtained a $50 industrial permit yesterday morning and "pulled the plug" between its sewer and the county sewer yesterday afternoon, making that industry the first users of the new sewers.

Futch said yesterday that the sub-zero conditions would prohibit turning on the large screw pumps to move sewage from the sewer line to the Granite City Sewage Treatment Plant, but said that will not prohibit use of the new sewers.

"We have a 36-inch line by Pre-Coat, which should hold anything put out by Pre-Coat until this weekend without pumping. Weathermen are predicting 40-degree weather this weekend, so we could start the pumps then and we

Women use CPR to save man's life at GC church

By VALERIE EVENEDEN of the Press-Record

Two women put into practice their knowledge of cardiopulmonary resuscitation to revive an elderly man who suffered a disabling heart attack while in church Sunday morning.

"The Lord was there with us, you know," stated Donna J. Pratt-Hall when commended for her quick reaction which restored breathing to Roy Lynn, a member of Third Baptist Church.

Mr. Lynn, 84, was reported in stable condition Wednesday in the Intensive Care Unit at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Mrs. Pratt-Hall was assisted in administering CPR by Nancy Greer, a young woman who recently moved to Lexington, Ky., but was home for the weekend and was attending church services.

"He had no pulse for between one-and-a-half and two minutes, but we were able to revive him before the ambulance got there," Mrs. Pratt-Hall said.

The mother of two young children had just walked into church and saw someone holding onto Mr. Lynn, who appeared to be ill. He then collapsed into unconsciousness.

"We took him into the church office and Miss Greer followed me in and we began to apply cardiopulmonary resuscitation," she explained.

The two women did not know each other, but their prior training quickly produced the teamwork necessary to restore Mr. Lynn's breathing.

Mrs. Pratt-Hall acquired her CPR knowledge through a 52-hour Red Cross course in Advanced First Aid and Emergency Training.

Her instructor was Dave Sander, an emergency medical technician.

Miss Greer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene (Dee) Maples, 2072 Center St., was trained in CPR while working at the Lots of Tots Nursery School, sponsored by the Church of the Nazarene in Granite City.

The young woman, 22, also was attending Bellevue Area College at the time.

For the past month, Miss Greer has been living in Winchester, Ky., and is employed at the Clark County Rural

A plan to convert the present Lansdowne sewage treatment plant to secondary sewage treatment at an estimated cost of $20 million is under consideration by the Metro-East Sanitary District. Walter "Shang" Mitchell, president of Granite City, president of the district board, told the Press-Record yesterday.

Greathouse said a study of the district's plan is awaiting a letter from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency at Springfield concerning its requirements for such a conversion proposal. The letter, he said, has been mailed by James Leinecke of the EPA who attended a meeting a week ago in which the proposal was suggested.

Horne and Shifrin, consulting engineers for the sanitary district, said a study of the conversion will require about 60 days. Fast action is required, Greathouse said, because all EPA funding is scheduled to expire in 1982. The district would expect about 75 percent funding from EPA if the plan goes forward.

Greathouse noted that a converted Lansdowne plant would mean secondary service for a number of communities which would include Venice and Madison, although a plan to provide sewage treatment service for those communities by the Granite City plant "is still optional," according to Greathouse.

A similar areawide plan for providing secondary sewage treatment to communities in the entire region collapsed several years ago after a dispute over who would be the sponsoring agency for the proposed regional plant.

Since that time the village of Sauget in the Cahokia area has undertaken the construction of secondary facilities to serve Centerville, Cahokia and Sauget. As sponsoring agency, Sauget will pay from $85 to $95 million for plant facilities to include both primary and secondary treatment. Part of this will be financed by EPA grants and the balance by bonds to be sold by Sauget, Greathouse said.

Madison and Venice have indicated a desire to obtain secondary sewage treatment from Granite City, but whether or not the EPA will go along with a separation of the two communities remains to be seen.

Greathouse said such separation will depend to a great extent upon rates that would be made available by the Granite City Council, assuming that the council voted to accept those communities.

Communities for which secondary sewage treatment must be provided include Madison, Venice, Washington Park, Fairmont City, Caseyville, Brooklyn and part of East St. Louis.

Sauget has opposed a division of these communities with a request for all or none of the communities where service is needed.

Operation of a secondary plant will depend greatly upon fees available from customers needing sewage treatment.

Fire hits restaurant

Last night was a long cold night for Granite City firemen as they fought two major blazes, one of which completely destroyed Gleason's Restaurant (formerly George Lindsey's) on Nameoki Road at the front of Belvedere Village Shopping Center.

The cause of the blaze has not been determined, but witnesses said the restaurant became suddenly engulfed in flames. One witness said he was driving past and noticed smoke in the building. While he was watching, "the smoke just turned into flames. I never saw anything like it," he said.

There was no explosion, firemen were told.

When the first alarm sounded at 11:25 p.m. yesterday, firemen were already on the scene of a major residential fire at 4024 Old Alton Road. "That caused us quite a shortage of manpower and equipment," Assistant Fire Chief George Smolich told the Press-Record this morning. However, two pumpers and the new tele-squirt were sent to Gleason's.

By the time firemen arrived, the entire restaurant building was engulfed in flames and the roof collapsed a few minutes later. There were no firemen inside at the time. "At that type of fire, it is just impossible for anyone to get inside," Smolich commented.

The firefighting effort, in two degree weather, lasted for three hours and 30 minutes. Engineer Don Hays was injured when he slipped on ice at the fire scene and hurt his back, but he did not require medical treatment.

Smolich said it is too soon to guess at the cause of the fire, but said it apparently was "a spontaneous fire, nearly an explosion, which instantly engulfed the building. It could have been from a building of vapors or gas, but it is too early to say yet," The

Venice permit for housing job

A building permit for construction of a 96-unit apartment complex on city-owned land at Bissell Avenue and Klein Street in Venice was issued by the Venice City Council Tuesday night, subject to approval by the city's building inspector, James Sands.

The project, estimated to cost $3.4 million to construct, will be federally-subsidized by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, and is to be built by G.H. Sternberg & Co.

Originally, a 136-unit complex costing about $4.1 million was proposed, but that later was scaled down to the present plan. Anthony Sansone of St. Louis, the project developer, plans to manage the apartments under HUD's Section Eight program.

Venice and the project will not significantly change the racial mix of the area.

The council also agreed to issue a building permit for Robin Leake to place a mobile home at 627 Mercedita Ave.

The monthly report of traffic on the McKinley Bridge showed an average increase of 184 vehicles per day on the bridge last month as compared to January, 1980. A total of 305,759 vehicles used the bridge last month, the report shows.

Fair market rates for rental of the apartments will be determined and eligible tenants will be charged no more than one-fourth of their family incomes for rent. The remainder is to be paid by HUD.

The project has been the subject of extensive study by the developer and city officials in order to satisfy HUD concerns over possible flood hazards, nearby railroad tracks and noise concerns, as well as the impact on racial balance of the predominantly-black north Venice area.

City officials contend that most of the tenants will be families which currently live in sub-standard housing in North

Nameoki rejects part of bill as 'too nigh'

By LISA LUTZ of the Press-Record

At the Nameoki Town Board meeting Monday night, the board decided that it would pay only $700 of the $1,399 bill received from Universal Research Corp., for 50 bags (two tons) of calcium chloride ice-melting pellets as they feel that the bill is too high.

Responding to the board's rejection of the entire amount of the bill, Highway Commissioner Frank Mehelich stated, "I don't think you can do it. It is an honest bill. Other areas have paid more. It (the calcium chloride) was ordered in July, delivered to us in November, and presented to us in good faith. You've got me up tight about this. I don't approve of this."

Research indicates that the calcium chloride pellets could have been bought for $10.40 a bag ($520 for 50 bags) from Industrial Soap, or $11.77 a bag ($588.50) from G.S. Robins. Mehelich paid $27.99 a bag, records show. The board agreed to approve payment of $14 a bag.

Mehelich contends that all he has to do is take the bill to County Highway Superintendent Lester Miller for approval. "If the bill isn't paid in 20 days, the board (members) will lose their bonds," Mehelich contended.

Supervisor Harold Davis responded, "After four years as highway commissioner, he still doesn't know the difference between a budget and cash flow. It is not fair to the taxpayers to pay a bill that is not just and you can quote me. All he had to do was pick up a phone (to check other prices)," Davis added.

The board's attorney, Irvin C. Slate Jr., chose not to comment on the issue.

Several members of the audience supported Mehelich's position and said they feel he has done a good job as the township's highway commissioner. They accused board members of attempting to discredit Mehelich for political reasons, since Davis is running against Mehelich for highway commissioner in the April election.

Approximately 25 persons attended the meeting.

RESTAURANT DESTROYED

Gleason's Family Restaurant, formerly George Lindsey's, was destroyed by fire last night and firefighters braved two degree weather and ice in an unsuccessful attempt to save the building. Witnesses said the structure suddenly burst into flames, which immediately engulfed the building, but there was no explosion. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

investigation will begin today, he added.

No estimates of damage have been prepared, but the building is considered a total loss, according to Smolich. The owner is listed as Corp. Realty Equity of Los Angeles, Calif., and Anthony Gleason of Spanish Lake, Mo., owned the business.

Gleason told firefighters that he had been having some problems with pipes in the building freezing and was using electric heaters to thaw them. Whether the heaters were responsible for the blaze will be investigated, Smolich said. Attempts will be made today to determine the point of origin and cause of the fire.

Firemen had to be very careful in fighting the restaurant fire due to ice underfoot and high-voltage power lines overhead. Illinois Power was eventually able to turn the power off, leaving portions of the shopping centers without heat or electricity during the firefighting.

The firefighting job was complicated because the fire hose kept freezing to the ground, making hoses difficult to move, it was reported.

Five extra men had to be called on duty, because of the two fires simultaneously.

The other fire began at 10:05 p.m. at the home of Don Roper, 4024 Old Alton Road, and engulfed the front half of the house. The cause is not known and an investigation has been started.

Shortly after firemen arrived, there was a flash and explosion, which might have been the furnace or hot water heater exploding, according to Fire Chief Don Parente.

Damage was estimated at $12,000 to the building and $7,000 to its contents. The house is owned by Abrams Realty. Firemen were on the scene until about 12:30 a.m. today.

Talent will spark Redbirds—if ailing pitchers regain form

By BILL WINTER

of the Press-Record

Talent carried the "nice guy" 1964-67 St. Louis Cardinals and the leading 1970s Oakland Athletics to baseball pennants, and could lead to a new championship era here, if

The opinion was voiced at Tuesday's Granite City Rotary Club luncheon by former Granite Cityan Dal Maxvill, who played as the nifty-fielding shortstop on the title-bound A's and Redbirds.

"The 'if' involves whether enough of the ailing Cardinals pitchers regain their top form, Maxvill said, pointing out that several have undergone surgery. He estimated that as many as five of the ten pitching positions could be won by relatively young hurlers in the 1981 pre-season competition.

A Cardinal coach through the 1980 season, Maxvill will be going to spring training again this year in Florida but his principal 1981 duties will be those of minor league infield instructor.

Maxvill echoed the views of Whitey Herzog, general manager and manager, that a shakeup was needed in the Cardinal roster to make the team a title contender. Both skill and team balance are essential for a club to perform well, he noted.

Maxvill gave the revamped 1981 team high marks for offense, speed, defense and relief pitching. The key to its success or failure will be the quality and depth of the starting pitchers, he added.

Responding to questions, Maxvill said shortstop Gary Templeton has awesome physical attributes and baseball skills, and will reach full super-stardom as soon as he is able to concentrate more fully on accurate throws to first base.

No one can match his defensive range and fielding dependability, and he is gifted in his ability to hit frequently and with power, the Rotary club was told.

Baseball salaries are likely to continue to soar until one or two franchises go bankrupt, Maxvill said; no

Living with inflation on a limited income

By RICHARD SHEPHERD

Executive Secretary, National Association of Mature People

Inflation is a heavy burden on anyone's budget. But if you have to live on a fixed income, you are feeling the pressure even more.

Despite what a lot of people imagine that the automatic cost of living increases for Social Security recipients can do for their financial situation, the facts are that nearly six persons out of 10 over 60 live a "hand-to-mouth" existence.

All expert financial advice fails here, because such advice is usually based on three concepts:

1. One's income, whatever it may be, is adequate when properly managed. 2. High-yield and low-risk investments, as well as paying cash to avoid high-interest loans. 3. Saving on taxes.

The first thing you discover is that your income and your needs are "fixed" but prices for goods and services are not, they're going up, up, up.

And unless you have made some wise investments in earlier years, your monthly pension benefits will probably leave you little more than an emergency fund.

If you belong to this group of retirees, even the fanciest footwork of a tax expert won't do you any good because you are probably not able to itemize deductions.

In fact, you might as well face it, you can't fight inflation. All you can do is to learn to cope with it by being a smart consumer, even a penny pincher.

Let's begin by taking a close look at your standard monthly expenses. First, if you own a home, check on your homeowners insurance.

Compare your coverage and premiums with an equal insurance from another company. Find out how much you could save if you would carry a bit more of the risk.

For example, if you have $50 deductible insurance and you would change it into $200 deductible (the amount you have to pay in case of insured damage before the insurance pays), the premiums will be considerably lower. The same rule is true for automobile insurance.

Many car owners hesitate anyway to file small claims, because they fear that their rates might go up as a result or their policies might be cancelled when they come up for renewal. So why not save on the premiums?

It's time also to re-evaluate your life and medical insurances.

There are two basic kinds of life insurance: "whole" (also called "straight" or "ordinary") and "term." Both offer financial security for your beneficiaries, in other words, they pay after death.

But "whole" life insurance is also somewhat of a savings plan because a cash value is accumulated. In case of financial emergency, you could borrow money up to the current cash value of your policy at a considerably lower interest rate than loan institutions would charge. But, therefore, the "whole" life insurance costs you much higher premiums than the "term."

In addition to regular "term," there is also a "decreasing term" policy, which means the amount of the premium stays the same but the coverage decreases in later years.

Considering that as you grow older and the need to secure the home mortgage and living expenses for other family members decreases, this "decreasing term" can be a money saver.

Though it can be dangerous to be underinsured, make sure you are not overinsured. This is particularly true for medical insurance.

Examine your policies, even the fine print, for possible duplication of coverage. Especially, compare coverage with what's already included in Medicare. Drop what you don't need.

Remember also that paying premiums annually is cheaper than quarterly or monthly pay plans. Besides, you can earn some interest if you put the money for the premiums into savings each month.

When you study your medical insurance coverage, you will find that you are paying for most of the medications prescribed.

Don't hesitate to discuss generic drugs with your physician. Generic drugs are the chemical equivalent of name brand drugs and often can be purchased for a much lower price.

Brand name and generic drugs vary in price with the pharmacy. Check around for the lowest price; most offer additional discounts for "senior citizens."

There are special by-mail-only prescription plans offered by membership associations. You make up for the usually small membership fee with savings not only on prescription drugs but also on lower priced group insurance policies.

Your good health is your most precious asset. Don't allow inflation to nibble on it.

Cutbacks in federal GC school program

As an economy measure, the Granite City school district's application for its Title I federal program in 1980-81 is being revised to remove funds previously proposed for attendance at state and national meetings by parents, administrators and instructional personnel. Attendance will be restricted to meetings in this immediate area.

School attendance will stop on May 29 for pre-school children, to allow the teachers the last week of the term to conclude their work on a pre-school curriculum guide.

The Title I summer school will be eliminated at the junior high school level in 1981.

Dale C. Rea, assistant to the superintendent, reports that "because of late Congressional action on the appropriation bill for this school year, several changes were made in our budget at the state level in order to gain budget approval."

"The forward funding provision of the law provides assurance of a minimum of 85 percent of the previous year's allocation, and the total amount of carryover was not known prior to the final report on the 1979-80 program."

"The indirect cost factor was removed and the teacher salary account was reduced so that the total project budget will conform to the funds known to be available."

"At present, the amount of the current year's grant on which we have been officially notified is $412,871, only $2,000 more than the 1979-80 grant. There is every indication that some additional money will become available, but the rate of increase experienced in previous years probably will not materialize."

"While we are limited in the economies we can make at this time, it seems prudent to take what steps we can—eliminating the summer school program for a saving in excess of $6,000, and removing the funds budgeted for meeting attendance, to save about $2,000."

"The latter is consistent with the attitude of the State Office of Education in denying approval for attendance by one of our teachers at the National Early Childhood Conference."

"Some minor savings can be made in other accounts which do not affect or change the program."

The budget changes were reviewed last week with the Title I Parent Advisory Council.

The school district has renewed for 1981 its contract with the Madison County Office of Manpower Development to refer in-school youths for part-time employment. Coordinated by Roy D. McConkey, the program utilizes him during the summer and several school counselors during the school term. Total funds received by the district under the contract will be $5,000.

Job information, counseling, guidance and placement services will be made available to participating young people, estimated to total 42.

Partney pledges to double city's grant applications

Dan Partney, 31-year-old candidate for mayor of Granite City, pledged yesterday to double the number of federal grants applied for by the city within 12 months of taking office.

"Taking a close look at every major city outside the Cook County area and you will see that Granite City ranks dead last in total federal dollars received," Partney said.

"Not only are we last overall, but Granite also ranked last in the federal dollars received per person. The per-capita grant here is $45 per individual but in Rock Island it's $381 per individual," Partney charged.

Further examination of city records reveals that from July, 1978, to the present, Granite City, with a population of 41,754, received $1.8 million in federal grants, while cities such as Alton, with fewer people, received $3.8 million, he said.

Partney laid the blame for what he terms "this tragedy of initiative" squarely on the shoulders of city hall. "Only 10 grants have ever been applied for since 1973, Partney contended. "No wonder we're so far behind. If the mayor does not take an active role in city development, if the mayor fails to even apply for various grants to Granite, then we cannot blame the federal government," he charged.

"Every year, we send out tax dollars to Washington and the government gives a percentage back to us in the form of roads, better housing, sewers and water treatment facilities, and many other projects," Partney explained.

"By not receiving our fair share of federal grants, we are, in effect, paying for public projects in Alton, Mt. Vernon, Springfield, and Peoria. Other city administrations have successfully relieved the local tax burden and helped their cities prosper by working effectively with the state and federal governments."

"The present Granite City mayor has failed in this effort, and the people of Granite City are paying for his failure," Partney concluded.

Decorative panels for North entrance

Granite City High School North will take on a slightly different appearance near the main entrance to the building, located on Maryville Road at Route 203. Thermopane windows, porcelain panels and mullions will be installed in place of larger windows that were shattered by vandals Oct. 6.

Ronald Landman, maintenance supervisor of the school district, has noted that "in the past seven years we have replaced seven windows. By adding the porcelain panels, we should alleviate some window breakage."

"The new panels will be colored porcelain, alternating black and gray, and should add to the decor of the building."

Wood River Glass will do the work for a total of $4,400; Southern Illinois Plate Glass bid $4,950. The cost of the replacement, along with the other vandalism damage, will be paid for by insurance, subject to a $5,000 deduction.

Without the panels, Wood River would have charged $2,720 and Southern Illinois, $3,450.

School district art supplies will be provided by the Blick firm, $491; Chaselle, $338; Bradburn, $329; and Nasco, $109.

Miss Evelyn Bowles, Madison County clerk, officer in charge of all elections within the county under a law that went into effect in late 1980, will utilize the Maryville, Parkview, Logan, Marshall and Wilson elementary schools for elections on April 7 and Nov. 3. Those elected in November will include Board of Education members.

The Marshall School Parent-Teacher Association will use the Marshall cafeteria and gymnasium for a school carnival on Feb. 27.

A benefit basketball game for the Officer Friendly program is scheduled by Granite City police and firemen for the Granite City High School South gymnasium on Feb. 26. Practice sessions will be held in the Nantooki grade school gymnasium.

Verdict sets state record

The $6 million verdict awarded by a St. Louis Circuit Court to 21-year-old Herbert J. Fowler Jr. last week was "more than twice as large as any verdict that had ever been recovered in Missouri for any injury and was the largest verdict ever received for a double amputee anywhere."

Fowler's attorney, Morris B. Chapman of the Chapman and Carlson law firm announced this week.

Both of Fowler's legs were severed by the wheels of a railroad hopper car which moved while he was sandblasting it in St. Louis Feb. 10, 1978. The verdict was rendered against the Park Corp., which provided rail switching services to Fowler's employer, Railcar Repair, Inc.

In addition to the $6 million verdict, Fowler settles a second cause out of court which sought punitive damages against the corporation. By that settlement, he will receive $1,000 a month for the remainder of his life, plus his attorney fees were paid, Chapman said.

TRAFFIC WARRANT Kenneth E. Richter, 36, of 2324 Orville Ave., was booked by Granite City police Saturday for failure to appear to answer a charge of disobeying a traffic signal. He was released on $35 bond.

FUNERAL FOR MOTHER OF SENATOR DIXON

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at Christ United Church of Christ, Belleville, for Mrs. Elsa Dixon, 76, mother of U. S. Senator Alan J. Dixon of Illinois. She died Sunday, Feb. 8, at St. Luke's Hospital West, St. Louis County.

Her late husband, William G. Dixon, operated an insurance and real estate agency in Belleville for many years. Survivors besides the senator are another son, Don R. Dixon of Belleville, seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Banks, offices to close Monday

All local banks will be closed both Saturday and Monday and savings and loan associations will join in closing Monday.

The state Job Service and Division of Unemployment Compensation will also close Monday, as will the county courthouse at Edwardsville. 50th anniversary of Lutheran Hour series

At the request of the International Lutheran Laymen's League, sponsor of The Lutheran Hour, Concordia Lutheran Church, 23rd Street and Grand Avenue, will join thousands of Lutheran churches in observing "Lutheran Hour Sunday" this Sunday at 10:15 a.m.

To lead the congregation in commemorating 50 years of broadcasting the Gospel through The Lutheran Hour, Concordia's Laymen League has engaged Pastor Ronald Schlegel of University City, Mo., to deliver the anniversary message.

Pastor Schlegel is public relations manager for the International Lutheran Laymen's League.

The guest preacher has pastored in Baltimore and St. Louis. He received his M.Div. degree from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis.

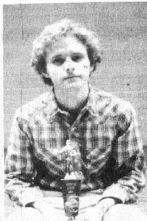

His previous radio experience has been with Broadcasting Commission of the Maryland Council of Churches and of the St. Louis Metropolitan Church Federation.

Rev. Schlegel has served on the St. Louis Mayor's committee on fair housing, and has chaired a neighborhood association. He also served on the board of the University City Theatre Alliance and coordinated that city's "Sunday In The Park" series.

The Lutheran Hour was first broadcast on Oct. 2, 1930, over Cleveland's CBS station.

Today, The Lutheran Hour is broadcast from 18 nations into 125 countries, using 46 different languages.

A total of 1,100 radio stations in the United States carry the programs, it was noted.

BROCK HILL, a student of Granite City High School South, who won the district competition of the American Legion speech contest held at Assumption High School last week. He will represent Granite City in division competition to be held at Carmi, Ill., on Feb. 18.

Groups to seek school facilities; March 4 deadline

Organizations wishing to use school facilities for spring and summer 1981 athletic programs and activities are being asked to contact the Granite City School District, 20th and Adams streets, by letter before March 4.

Those requesting school facilities are to specify which field or building, the name and sponsor of the organization, and the location, date and time needed.

DAMAGE ALLEGED
Criminal damage to property was charged against Richard D. Powderly, 19, of 2714 Myrtle Ave., who was arrested at 10 p.m. Monday at 2556 Washington Ave. Neva Demaree told authorities a door was kicked open and damaged.

PRACTICING cardiopulmonary resuscitation are Larry and Sharon Melton, using a Resuscitation Annie (model on floor), at a Basic CPR course, sponsored last week by Emerson School PTA. The Meltons were among 19 individuals receiving certificates after completing the basic instruction, taught by Ed Morton, Illinois Heart Association state coordinator for a five-county region, including Madison County. Bill Sternberg, PTA president, was responsible for arranging the public service program.

SCHOOL VANDALISM
Vandals turned over desks and threw papers onto the floor after entering Johnson Elementary School through a window near the playground. It was discovered Monday. The intruders ate food in the school cafeteria before departing.

News notes

Opposition is being voiced to a proposal to raise the 4 cents a gallon fuel tax on barges in an effort to recover about $500 million of the yearly cost of maintaining inland rivers. The waterway tax already is scheduled to rise to 6 cents in October, not counting any new increase that might be imposed by Congress.

Associate Judge C. Ed Ford Ferguson is considering a request by owners and breeders of thoroughbred horses in southern Illinois to block the opening of the racing season Feb. 27 at Fairmont Park in Madison County. Race Track spokesman for the owners and breeders, said the Illinois Racing Board's approval of Feb. 27-Oct. 11 racing is dangerous to horses and could cut the state's receipts. The racing board said no written objections were received. It added that the dispute is between thoroughbred and harness interests, each wanting the most dates and the best racing weather at Fairmont.

U.S. Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis plans to order a one-year delay in the requirement that "passive restraint" safety devices be installed in 1980 full-sized autos. The rule calls for airbags that inflate instantly in a crash or seat-belt pretensioners that automatically into place when a passenger enters a car and closes the door.

The four Democrats on the seven-member Illinois Supreme Court ruled Monday that the Illinois Senate must conduct a new election for Senate president. The 29 Republican senators had chosen David C. Shapiro of Amboy, with Governor James R. Thompson presiding and the Democrats out of the Senate chamber. The 30 Democratic senators later picked Philip J. Rock of Chicago. Shapiro assailed the court ruling as political and said the high court is ignoring a traditional separation of powers between the judicial, executive and legislative branches of government.

The 1981 Quad-City health fair is planned for April 9 and 10, with St. Elizabeth Medical Center as the sponsor. About 1,000 persons are expected to receive health tests.

Illinois highway fatalities in January totaled 138, or 26 more than the 112 recorded in the first month of 1980. The total includes 12 persons killed in seven railroad crossing accidents, and 21 pedestrians fatally injured in 21 mishaps.

Counties in Illinois have been allotted $4,325,702 (except Cook County, which was given $3,942,503) as their share of motor fuel tax funds paid to the state treasury during January; the total includes $156,348 for Madison County. Municipalities were sent $11,622,374; among the amounts distributed were $48,837 for Granite City, $48,335 for Madison and $5,473 for Venice. Townships and road districts received $3,762,743, including $45,871 for townships and districts in Madison County.

PARKED AUTO LOOTED
A stereo, booster and bracket valued at $80 were stolen from the parked auto of William Null, 3012 National Ave. during the weekend in the 2600 block of Edwards Street.

I enjoyed the Octoberfest very much and it afforded me the opportunity to see old friends of mine who are now retired from Granite City Steel.

It seemed to me that everyone who visited the park enjoyed it also. This idea of yours is such a great one. I think it is worthy of being considered as an annual affair. If I can be of any assistance in putting on future Octoberfests, please feel free to call upon me.

To Whom It May Concern

Approximately 40 years ago a young girl was killed by a train while crossing the 20th street tracks in clear view of two (2) crossing guards. Sometime later a group of civic minded citizens circulated a petition, and I presented it to the city council requesting an overpass over the tracks. Several times since (3 times to be exact) we circulated petitions for the overpass but it took 4 years and 6 or 7 different mayors, until Mayor Schuler was elected before our dream of an overpass became a reality.

There were many disappointments; there were many crepe hangers, a lot of paper work, but Mayor Schuler prevailed.

The tenacity and the determination that he has shown in this as in other projects makes me believe that he deserves another term as mayor.

Sincerely,

To the Citizens of Granite City

I would like to inform you of the strong Union support that Mayor Paul Schuler and his administration has shown during the term of office. Paul Schuler has worked hard for the union people in this city and also has cooperated with the District Painter's Local 400 and also has cooperated with the Electrician's Local 476 and also has cooperated with but to fifty percent that only was a benefit to the union, however we are in need of painting. Lottery determines ballot positions for GC candidates Incumbents did not fare too well in a drawing Monday afternoon to determine positions on April 7 election ballot for Granite City and Granite City Township.

Mayor Paul Schuman, who has never appeared first on the ballot in his eight years in office, will appear second again, with his name under that of Alderman Warren Decatur, candidate for mayor.

Dan Partney, who filed his petitions after the opening hour of filing, will appear third.

In four races for aldermen where more than one candidate was on hand at 8 a.m. on the first day of filing, lotteries were used to determine ballot positions among those who were in line at that time.

Again, incumbents did not do too well, as only one of those running got the top ballot position. Incumbent First Ward Alderman Charles Douglas got the third spot in his bid, topped by Leroy Mangiaracino and Casmer Skubish. Former alderman William "Bill" Dallas (Sr.), filed later and will appear last.

In the Fourth Ward, incumbent Glen Sprankle was selected third from among the three entered in Monday's lottery. John Zikovich will appear first with Sharon Perjak second in that ward.

In the Sixth Ward, from which incumbent Alderman Roy Poulos is retiring, a three-way drawing ended with Woodrow Moad first on the ballot, Stephen Saltich second and Walter Milton third. Bill Smithson, who filed later, will appear fourth on the ballot.

The only incumbent who won a top slot in Monday's lottery was Seventh Ward Alderman Paul Ray Bowler, whose name will appear above Michael Werthe, who was second in the lottery.

Ron Markarian will appear third, because he filed later. The lottery was conducted by Associate Judge Clayton Williams, who now is seated in the Granite City Hall.

In a rundown of city and township races where candidates are listed in order of filing and no drawings were necessary, City Clerk Robert W. Stevens will be unopposed for reelection. Incumbent Assessor Von Dee Cruse's name will appear before challenger Shirley Voegelé for that office and for supervisor, incumbent Nelson Hagnauer filed before challenger Tom Nesbit, who will appear last on the ballot.

In the Second Ward, incumbent Fred P. Schuman filed before Joseph R. McGinness Sr., so their names will appear in that order.

Likewise, in the Third Ward, Carl Kettel filed first, followed by Jake Vardaian, who filed after Bailey. Darmond Broyles withdrew from the race Monday.

Valentine gift—quitting smoking

(Illinois Lung Association) In February, the American Lung Association is promoting a happy, nonsmoking Valentine's Day. It is urging everyone who still smokes to quit smoking for someone he or she loves.

To help smokers quit, the lung association has available its new Freedom from Smoking program.

The self-help program provides a nuts-and-bolts way to quit smoking in 30 days. A special maintenance feature helps the smoker make permanent the nonsmoking lifestyle.

The program can be used at the smoker's convenience, done at his or her pace, without any group participation.

Some lung associations are inserting a special Valentine in the quit-smoking program this month. The Valentine will be sent to someone the smoker loves, and says, "I'm quitting for you because I love you."

More and more smokers are quitting these days because they love care so much says the lung association. Nonsmokers themselves also benefit when someone they love quits smoking—the air they breathe is not as clouded with all the chemicals and gases contained in second-hand smoke.

Valentine's Day is the perfect time to quit smoking for someone you love—and yourself—according to the Christmas Seal people.

It's a fun time when people are encouraged to show others how much they care about them. But the fun also involves affection and concern for someone's well-being.

Each month, lung associations around the country receive letters from families and friends of smokers, asking for help to convince their loved ones to stop polluting their lungs and lives.

Now, with the Freedom from Smoking program, any smoker who wants to quit has a head start.

Care of baby's teeth needs to begin early

By MARY RICHARDS
Illinois Department of Public Health

You should be concerned about the proper care of your children's teeth by the time they are two years of age. Right? Wrong! You should be concerned about your children's teeth before they are even born—no later than two months after conception.

A baby's teeth begin to grow when the fetus is only eight weeks old.

Tooth forming cells, like all the other specialized cells of the body, are nourished by the food you eat during pregnancy.

Your blood must supply the nutrients to build strong teeth, strong jaw bones and healthy gums.

The Illinois Department of Public Health urges you to see your dentist as soon as you know that you are pregnant.

You need to know what foods to eat in order to supply nourishment not only for your unborn baby but also for yourself so that the issues of your mouth do not suffer.

Your dentist can advise you about what foods to eat and the quantity needed to supply adequate amounts of vitamins A, C and D. Some vitamins, if taken in too large a quantity, can be toxic to your system.

Minerals, especially calcium and phosphorus, are particularly important to the healthy formation of the dentin and enamel layers of your baby's teeth.

By the time your baby is born, the formation of the tooth is almost complete. Only the enamel layer of the primary tooth continues to form after birth.

The enamel layer provides protection for the tooth. But enamel is also subject to destruction.

Denists and physicians are now aware of an enamel-depleting hazard known as "nursing bottle caries."

The practice of putting your baby to bed with a bottle of citrus juice, formula or soft drink can result in prolonged acid and sugar contact with the teeth.

When the baby is asleep, saliva flow decreases. If the bottle remains in the mouth, there is not enough saliva to neutralize the juice acidity of sugary liquids, and this leads to erosion of tooth enamel.

To avoid nursing bottle caries, citrus juices, milk, formula and drinks containing sugar should be fed from a bottle while the baby is in an upright position, or from a cup at an appropriate age.

If your child needs a bottle at bedtime for comfort, dentists recommend that you fill it with cool water.

—March 3: Investment opportunities. Scott Luster, an investment executive with Shearson, Loeb & Rhoades, St. Louis, will discuss investment decisions, put-and-call options, and strategies for effective trading in common stocks.

—March 10: Security and Medicare update. Ted Rowe, a district manager for the Social Security Administration, will discuss the future of Social Security, changes in disability, and how to receive benefits and continue Medicare eligibility while still working.

ILINOIS LIBRARY USAGE ANALYZED Jim Edgar, secretary of state and Illinois state librarian, this week announced publication of "Analyses of the 1979-80 Illinois Public Library Statistics," a supplement to public library statistical data for 1979-80.

Secretary Edgar said the 87-page document gives averages of earlier data for six population groups and the 18 library systems in Illinois. It also has 16 ratios and percentages for the 579 public libraries in the state, and average of ratios for the population groups and systems.

New members for DeMolay Mothers

The Granite City DeMolay Mothers welcomed five new members at their meeting last week at the Masonic Temple.

Newcomers to the organization are Mesdames Helen Ricketts, Margaret Glendening, Sandy Wingrove, Renee Perrin and Rita Smith.

Twenty-nine members attended the business session, concluded by Liz Gibbons, president.

The group furthered plans to assist the DeMolay chapter at its annual "Chili Supper," which is scheduled Tuesday, Feb. 17, from 11 a.m. until 7:30 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased from club members and DeMolay youth for $5.00, or may be obtained at the door. The public is invited to attend.

Supper patrons may also visit a "white elephant" sale, to be conducted at the same time, Mrs. Gibbons said.

It was noted Marie Naeve is a patient at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, and Louise Orr is in St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Both are club members.

Several future fund-raising projects were suggested and discussed.

Refreshments were served to those mentioned and to Carol Carpenter, Peggy Hackney, Marlene Forbes, Lois Hebblethwaite, Charlotte Mize, Verna Stuart, Mary Stuart, Barbara McKinney, Judy Miller, Doris Payne, Beverly Tsiglaroff, Beverly Singleton, Marie Davis, Cynthia Jo Weidner, Ruby Sullivan, Jo Meyer, Louise Fawcett, Sherill Cloward, Lois Wright, Martha Simpson, Audrey Cornier, Hilda Few and Betty Ebrecht and grandchildren.

The club will next meet March 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the Masonic Temple.

Venice Women's Club donates

A donation to the Venice Crippled Children's Organization was authorized at last week's meeting of the Venice Women's Club.

Seminar Feb. 21 on family crises

The Madison County Urban League will present a family life seminar on Saturday, Feb. 21, at the Mount Nebo Missionary Baptist Church, 800 Jefferson St., Madison, from 8:30 a.m. to noon.

The Family Life Seminar will concentrate on disease prevention, pregnant teenagers, and one-parent families. Films will be shown and there will be a discussion of these topics by group leaders with a question and answer session.

Registration is from 8:30 to 9:15 a.m., during which coffee and hot chocolate will be served. Anyone age 13 and over is invited to attend. Workshop leaders are Mrs. Bernice Savage, registered nurse; Mrs. Earline Howard, Mrs. Hilda James, R.N.; Charles Haynes, Mrs. Metro Pierson, Mrs. Barbara Madison and others.

According to the Division of Family Health of the Department of Illinois Public Health, there have been 610 teenage pregnancies in the Quad-Cities area with 14 of these ending in fetal deaths. These statistics are relative for the age group 10 to 19.

Half of all black children have working mothers and half of all black preschoolers live in single-parent families, the department says.

About one million children run away from home each year, according to national statistics and 500,000 teenagers become mothers each year.

"The underprivileged are not the only ones in need of services. Families' decision to seek help from outside should be seen as a sign of strength, and not as an admission of failure. The family life seminar will try to prevent crises, rather than simply react to them," a spokesman said.

The Rev. Jerome Jackson is pastor of the host church.

Seminar on attracting industries

A seminar entitled "The Prospect Selects a Community" will be presented in the University Center at SIUE on Wednesday, Feb. 18, from 3:30 to 9 p.m.

Purpose of the session is to help strengthen local economic development programs, according to Robert Koepke, SIUE's coordinator for area development.

Area residents who attend the seminar will learn how businesses evaluate and select communities before opening new company offices and plants.

The schedule of events for the session will consist of community case studies and a question-and-answer period. Several businesses will be represented at the program, including Illinois Tool Works, Basler Electric Co., Ralston Purina, Pantus Co. and Carlisle Corp.

The fee for the seminar, including a dinner, is $10. Koepke can be contacted at 692-3668.

Q. Even though the "crunch" is on, are there times when it's actually wise financial management to use credit?

A. Yes — in certain circumstances and with the provision you can safely budget for the payments. For example, it may prove cheaper to arrange a home improvement loan to fix up your home rather than move. If acceptance of a better job requires a new car, you may be investing in your future through the use of credit. If you need cash to take advantage of a good opportunity such as an important job interview or even buying a badly-needed major appliance on sale, there may be more than one way to approach the problem. If your first inclination is to withdraw a certificate of deposit before maturity rather than borrow at today's interest rates, be sure you know the facts. The penalty for an early withdrawal on a CD might be more than the interest paid on a short term loan (even at today's rates). Or, depending on the loan and terms, the CD, at maturity, might be enough to pay off the loan plus interest. If in doubt about when to use credit, ask any of our financial officers . . . Mr. and Mrs. Tim Gregory

Gregory-Hicks

Miss Helen L. Hicks became the bride of Tim L. Gregory on Jan. 17 at the Pontoon Beach Church of Christ.

The Rev. Charles Sackett performed the ceremony at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Nuptial selections were furnished by Mrs. Grieve, church organist.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Willa Hicks of Granite City, and George Hicks of Collinsville. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Gregory, 1021 Briarbrae, St. Louis.

She wore a lace bordered veil of bridal illusion and she held a bouquet of white roses and blue and white carnations.

Miss Cindy Kemp served as maid of honor. She selected a pastel blue lace gown and her bouquet was an arrangement of blue and white flowers.

Scott Gregory, a brother of the groom, was best man.

Todd Rusk, a cousin of the groom, and David Nomm, the bride's nephew, seated the guests.

A reception was held after the service in the church hall. Miss Catherine Thorsberry and Miss Katherine Nomm, nieces of the bride, assisted and Miss Dawn Gregory, the groom's sister, presided over the guest book.

After a wedding trip to Louisiana, the newly married Mr. and Mrs. Gregory are now residing in Baton Rouge, La.

German cookery is homemakers lesson

"German Cookery" was the subject of a lesson presented by Mrs. Leona Delaioy and Mrs. Anna Michaels at a monthly meeting of the Granite City Unit of Homemakers Extension Association held at Nemoak United Presbyterian Church.

They prepared and served German cooked chow, with light rye and pumpernickel bread, Rhinefeld style sauerbraten, spätzle, red cabbage with apples.

Mrs. Michaels also baked springerle, pressed anise cookies and the hostesses, Freddy McElroy and Marcie Johnson served apple strudel for dessert.

A vase of flowers, native to Germany, edelweiss, enzan and alpine rose, adorned the serving table along with authentic German candles and a blue and white tablecloth printed with scenes of German cities.

Blue and white are the national colors of Bavaria, it was noted.

Mrs. Delaioy and Mrs. Michaels also had a display of many souvenirs and treasures which they brought back from their trips to Germany. They had completed research at the local library and pointed out on a map of Madison County where major German settlements had been made.

Josephine Uram gave an interesting and informative report on the background of German cooking.

Madge Ramsey delivered the health lesson, "Playing It Safe" which dealt with cancer of the colon.

Elizabeth Schmidt, chairman, announced the theme of the IHEF State Meeting, March 17-19, is "A Touch of the Past, Present and Future." Members are invited to attend this meeting, held at Champaign, Ill., she said.

First vice-chairman, Irma Taylor, announced that a "Meat Cutting" program will be held April 1, 7:30-9:30 p.m. at the Farm Bureau auditorium in Edwardsville.

Fee of $1 to be paid at the door. Fresh cuts of meat will be given away as door prizes, she explained.

The attendance prize was won by Mary Uherich.

The next meeting will be held March 3 at the Nemoak United Presbyterian Church at 12 noon. Prior to the regular meeting, a social session will be held, starting at 10 a.m.

Blackwell-Spalding

Miss Gayle Lynn Spalding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wb Spalding, 4027 Garden Lane, and David Wayne Blackwell, 2561 Nameoki Drive, son of Mrs. L. A. Blackwell of Ashland, Ky., were united in marriage on Jan. 24 at the First Assembly of God Church.

The Rev. C. Dale Edwards performed the double ring ceremony at 6 o'clock in the evening before an altar decorated with bouquets of winter flowers.

A program of nuptial selections was provided by Marilyn Kay Crucial who presided at the organ and soloist Bill Paterson.

For her wedding, the bride chose a formal white organza gown fashioned with a Chantilly lace empire bodice, sculptured oval neckline and lace bishop sleeves.

Wide bands of Chantilly lace bordered the triple tier skirt and chapel train.

A headpiece created of lace and pearls secured her melody length veil of bridal illusion and she held a tear-drop bouquet of white carnations, baby's breath and red roses.

Honor attendant was Paula Mueller. She selected a long primrose color gown of luster knit designed with spaghetti strap bodice and off the shoulder lace ruffles which formed long sleeves.

She wore a wide brim hat covered with netting and pearl trim and held a nosegay style bouquet of pink carnations and red roses.

The bridesmaids, Connie Rae and Tina Kay Spalding, and Mrs. Nancy Spalding, sisters and a sister-in-law of the bride, and Lori Roach, were attired in burgundy dresses identical in style to the maid of honor.

Each bridesmaid wore a matching picture hat and carried similar nosegay bouquets.

The flower girl, Kelly Marie Valicoff, a niece of the bride, was dressed in white organza and rose lace frock made with a fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, full sleeves and gathered skirt.

Her headpiece of shirred illusion was accented with dusty rose and pink silk flowers and was enhanced with a tulle bow and streamers. She carried a basket of rose petals.

Christopher Lee Allen, a nephew of the bride, served as ringbearer.

The groom chose Kenneth Meagher as best man.

Jim Dumont, Don Meagher, Terry L. and E. Carson Spalding, brothers of the bride, Mark Hawkins and Jerry Arnold completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

Guests were received by the newlywed couple at a reception held at the Croatian Home. The rehearsal dinner was hosted in the home of the bride's parents.

After a wedding trip to Arkansas, the couple is now residing in Granite City. The bride is a graduate of North High School and her husband is a South High School graduate.

County housing board extends its federal contract

The Madison County Housing Authority board on Monday extended until the year 2000 its contract providing for federal regulation of the authority.

The U. S. Housing and Urban Development Department had told MCHA its 1981 budget and operating subsidy would not be approved until the contract extension was adopted.

The authority agreed to continue providing low-income housing for 10 years after retiring its construction bonds. It receives subsidies in the form of 40-year construction bonds and a portion of annual operating costs.

MCHA Attorney Casper Nighossian told commissioners he felt the extension requirement violated an existing contract with HUD. He said the board would be in a strong legal position if it used to enforce enforcement of the mandate, but conceded that "practically, it might not be worth it."

He added that federal funds could be offset by charging higher rents.

Board Chairman James May of Edwardsville said he agreed that HUD was being arbitrary but added that he saw no problem in approving the extension: "I don't mind signing it, but they went about it wrong."

HUD last year temporarily cut off its subsidy in an effort to force budgeting changes regarding Nighossian's salary. It later gave in and approved the 1980 budget.

He submitted the extension, but the board would delay their pay raises.

The MCHA on Monday approved a contract negotiated with Teamsters Local 25 maintenance and clerical workers and project managers. It must still be ratified by employees and HUD.

Included are 13 holidays, a minimum of two hours' work for maintenance men called out while off duty, and pledges to update or revise a pension contract and to write detailed job descriptions. The pending 1981 budget calls for 10 percent employee salary increases.

George Dewey VanDyke of Edwardsville was hired as assistant executive director at $15,000 a year. Formerly administrative assistant to former State's Attorney Nicholas Byron, he was chosen from a group of about eight finalists.

Secretary Jackie Bone was named to also serve as treasurer, for additional pay of $3,500 a year. Melissa Marks, project manager for the May Building in Edwardsville, was assigned as occupancy specialist of the county authority.

Union local endorses 4

Support for the mayors in the Quad-City area was expressed at last week's meeting of United Steelworkers of America Local 4604 of Granite City Steel.

The approximately 50 members present unanimously endorsed Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City, Mayor Mike Sasyk of Madison and Mayor Tyrone Echols of Venice for re-election.

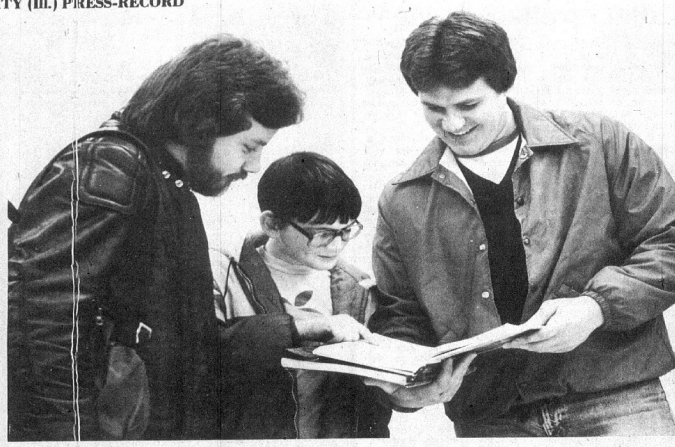

They also gave their unanimous support to the reelection bid of Granite City Township Supervisor Nelson Hagnauer.

Man struck after helping

An Edwardsville man told police at 11:30 p.m. Monday that a man he had been helping at a house in Madison had grabbed him, thrown him down some stairs and struck him on the face, breaking his glasses.

Pete Nasir, who suffered cuts to the face, said the incident occurred after he had helped the man move some bank equipment at a house in the 900 block of Washington Avenue, Madison.

Nasir said the attack was unprovoked and was unable to offer an explanation for it. He was advised to see the state's attorney.

1981 is year of disabled persons

The International Year of Disabled Persons (IYDP) has been officially proclaimed by President Ronald Reagan in a ceremony in the Oval Office of the White House.

"Today there are 35 million Americans who represent one of our most under-utilized national resources," the president said. "All of us stand to gain when those who are disabled share in America's opportunities."

Pres. Reagan commended the leadership of the U.S. Council for the IYDP, pledged the cooperation of his administration, and asked for combined efforts by private and public sectors to expand "opportunities for disabled Americans to make a fuller contribution to our national life."

Richard S. Schweiker, secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services, participated in the ceremony.

Alan A. Reich, president of the U.S. Council, the private, non-profit group organized to promote the year in this country, thanked the president for officially recognizing the observance.

Reich said the U.S. Council supports the president's "efforts to achieve world peace and a stable economy. What is good for disabled Americans is good for all Americans."

Endorsements for Riskovsky

The niece of former Vice President Walter F. Mondale and the president of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) gave their endorsements to the candidacy of Jim Riskovsky for mayor of Madison during a fund-raising dinner for Riskovsky at Alexander's Restaurant Monday evening.

Karen Mondale spent more than three hours meeting the candidate and guests at the fund-raiser before announcing, "I have met your candidate. If this is your candidate, I am for your candidate."

She added, "I have heard your concerns for Madison and I have heard your confidence in Jim Riskovsky. If Jim can carry these positions into action, I am enthusiastic for his candidacy."

She also informed the crowd that her uncle will be a candidate for president of the United States in 1984.

Oliver Mason, president of the Madison-Venice Chapter of the NAACP, said he does not have the authority to endorse any candidate on behalf of the NAACP, but said that as an individual, he supports Riskovsky's candidacy and "will, to my fullest, endorse J.R."

Riskovsky told the gathering, "Our city is long overdue for a change. Our present administration has been in office for 10 years. Since that time, our city has lost 20 percent of its population."

He contended the population decline, from 8,000 residents in 1950 to 5,000 in the latest census indicates the city is dying. "What can we do to save it? This is just one of the many questions which need to be answered," he said, pledging to listen to the ideas of the people and to hold semi-annual town meetings on city problems.

He also said he is concerned over the Madison Police Department, con-at the university through the Educare Program, a program which allows people to attend selected classes on a space available basis. Andy's friends are both sophomores at the university, while Noud has a concentration in electronic engineering.

tending, "the morale of our police officers has reached an all-time low of zero percent." He pledged to give officers opportunities for advancement through a merit system and to strive to restore harmony in the department.

Riskovsky also pledged to work for a vocational trade school for the youths and to form "a junior government" to get the young people of Madison involved in the decisions which will affect their futures.

He said he would create an advisory committee to study the needs of senior citizens, including proper housing, food and clothing and to improve the burglar alarm and smoke detection systems for seniors.

He contended that business is "steadily on the decline" in Madison and said that, if elected, he would meet with each businessman

Boy, 11, is doing well in classes at SIUE

By TOMMYE WALTER

When Andy Fingerhut isn't bounding the halls with his Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville classmates, he can most likely be found in a sixth grade classroom at State Park Elementary School in the Collinsville district.

That's right. The 11-year-old boy is not only handling his regular sixth grade work with ease, but also is taking two college level courses as well.

His day goes something like this. He attends classes at State Park Place, Nemo Township, in the morning, with his father picking him up at the school between 11 and 11:15 a.m.

"We pack a sack lunch and Andy eats it on the way to the campus," John Fingerhut said.

Classes at the university begin with college algebra at 8:30 a.m. followed by biology at 12:30. Andy is back at his elementary school by 1:45 or 2 p.m.

The yellow school bus delivers him to his home around 5:30 p.m.

Thirty minutes later, following a snack, he is at his father's side, reminding him it's time for homework. "Dad, we have work to do," he says.

"I lost a husband and a son when this began," Shirley Fingerhut said, her twinkling eyes betraying any dismay she might have concerning the turn of events.

John and Shirley Fingerhut have known for some time that they had a gifted child. About a year ago, they began looking into possibilities for enrolling him in an educational program that would give him additional stimulation.

Officials at four area colleges contacted by the Fingerhuts told them nothing was available. "We even contacted a children's hospital and private schools in St. Louis for ideas on where we could go for added stimulation for him," Mrs. Fingerhut said.

In the meantime, John Fingerhut decided to enroll his son at SIUE during the winter quarter. There he learned about the Educare Program, whereby people can enroll in courses for their own enrichment. They attend regular classes, but receive no grades, and no records are kept of their attendance.

On the first day he was able to register, Fingerhut was called into work. He dropped by the campus after work, only to find that most of the classes he was interested in taking were filled.

"I was desperate. At that point, I was willing to take English composition," he said, adding that all of those class sections were also filled.

He had brought Andy along with him to show him the campus. When Fingerhut could not find what he wanted, he told his son, "Let's go. The prospects of either John or his son, Andy, going to SIUE began to look rather grim."

Going home turned out not too early for either. He had locked the keys in the car. John Fingerhut telephoned his wife. On her way to bringing him an extra set of keys, she took the wrong road and was late in getting there.

A less motivated man might have given up. Fingerhut is determined. He next pursued the possibility of the Educare Program for Andy.

Another idea occurred to him. If he was going to be bringing his son to the campus every day, why not enroll in the same courses through the Educare Program?

Today, Andy and his father are doing extremely well in both algebra and biology.

However, they had something of a setback in the beginning. Andy brought home a 76 on one of his first algebra quizzes. His father had an 85.

The family was not too concerned. After all, one could not expect an 11-year-old to do as well as the traditional college student.

However, it was a situation that Andy could not stand. He felt he had known the information; something must have gone wrong. Something bad.

The instructor had given out two different sets of test papers that morning, with the instructions that the students label their papers either "A" or "B." It turned out that Andy had mislabeled his test paper.

The teacher agreed to grade his paper again. This time, Andy scored with a 98.

Andy and his father aren't the only members of the Fingerhut family to be participating in some kind of campus learning experience. Shirley Fingerhut is taking a course at Belleville Area College and is a senior.

Andy is enrolled in the early childhood speech program at St. Louis University. Not to be left out, nine-year-old Matt is also in the gifted program at his elementary school.

Andy's parents don't feel that their oldest son is all that unique. "There are a lot of Andys around," his mother says, adding that "they just aren't identified."

He fits right in with the older classmates at SIUE. During the first week of classes, he sat up front with his father. Now, he sits in the rear of the classroom with his new buddies.

"They have offered to fix him up with their sixth grade sisters," Fingerhut said. "I don't know if he'll be any older girls for them."

Getting along with other people is a high priority within the Fingerhut family, coming well up front of other things they feel that constitute the good life.

In discussing the little boy who is able to wade through the book "Jaws" when he was in the second grade, his mother said, "If I find I have raised a kid capable of coming up with a mathematics formula or a discovery that will somehow change the world, but he has a rotten attitude, I will not be happy with what I have done."

Advisory group to hear reports

The Venice Title I and Title VI District-Wide Advisory Council will meet on Wednesday, Feb. 18, at 7 p.m. in the library, according to Mrs. Charlotte Dilday, and Mrs. Caroline

Malherk, co-chairmen. Progress reports will be made regarding awareness sessions, career mini courses, field trips, home visits, conferences, staff meetings and student activities.

The Venice District Institute is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 23. The next meeting of the Title I and Title VI District-Wide Advisory Council will be March 18, at 1:15 p.m.

Mother reports man hurt child

A Madison mother told police at 10:30 p.m. Monday that a man had thrown her 2-year-old daughter out of the front door when he became angry after being told to leave her house.

An officer, responding to a call from the mother, said the child's nightclothes were wet and she had a bruise on the back of her head.

She had told the man to leave, the mother said, but he had later returned. He became angry when told to get out again, she alleged.

A short time after the incident, a Madison man was taken into custody in the 1000 block of Madison Avenue.

He remained in custody Tuesday, pending further investigation into the incident.

SKIDS DURING SNOW Carl A. Stucke, 21, of 3801D Village Lane was charged with driving too fast for road conditions during snowfall at 5:50 a.m. Tuesday. His northbound auto skidded sideways, its left front striking the rear of the parked car of Allen Harris, Foley, Mo., in front of 1536 Edwardsville Road. The Harris vehicle was knocked against the Odom family's chain link fence.

Burglary at games room

A burglary at Wedg's Games Room, 1701 Edwardsville Road, Madison, netted the intruder an undetermined amount of coins. It was reported this week.

Entry into the building was gained by prying open a side door.

In the early morning hours, a passerby saw a man standing near a cigarette machine inside the building and notified Madison police. Officers searched the premises with negative results.

Investigating further, police found the cigarette machine had been pried open, as well as coin boxes on four pinball games, two foosball machines and three coin-operated pool tables.

The drawer to an unattended cash register also had been forced open.

The man seen inside the building was described as blond, about five feet, six inches tall and thin. He was wearing a yellow jacket and blue jeans, police were advised.

Tremors shake State Police post

By JUDY TAPLIN

Radio transmissions were temporarily shut down and six communications room employees were evacuated at the Illinois State Police District 11 headquarters in Maryville last week when tremors shook the south section of the building.

Since there were no earthquakes reported in the St. Louis area last Thursday, District Commander Glenn Huffman said it is logical to assume that the tremors — three or four in a one-hour period — were related to the mine subsidence that has plagued the headquarters building for the past nine months.

The state's new Subsidence Rapid Response Team arrived at the headquarters building Friday to determine if the tremors had caused movement of a nearby radio tower, and a state official said the tremors could speed up a decision on whether or not to relocate the District 11 headquarters.

The first tremor occurred at 2:05 p.m. Thursday. A dispatcher in the radio room said the first thing he did was call the National Weather Service in St. Louis.

"Has there been an earthquake reported?" he asked. The answer was no.

Between 2:05 and 3:05 p.m., there were "about three more tremors," Huffman told a reporter. "We moved people out of the radio room at about 3:30."

(The radio room is only several feet from the 350-foot high state police tower.)

Huffman and several other state police officials stayed in the radio room from 3:05 until 5 p.m. After there had been no additional tremors in that time period, radio transmissions resumed at the District 11 headquarters.

Huffman said the radio tower and both the inside and outside of the building were thoroughly checked but that no signs of fresh subsidence damage could be found.

Huffman said three other state police districts — at Litchfield, DuQuoin and Effingham — took over radio transmissions for District 11 during the time the communications room was shut down. There was no interruption in service, he said.

Since last May, when the first mine subsidence was spotted, the headquarters building in Maryville has had "a lot of pops and cracks," Huffman said. But the tremors were something new.

Henry Cooley, executive assistant to Illinois State Police Supr. R. J. Miller, said the tremors have given a sense of urgency to a decision on whether or not to relocate the District 11 headquarters elsewhere.

Cooley said the rapid response team, which is under jurisdiction of the state Abandoned Mined Lands Reclamation Council, will conduct drilling to determine the extent of, and the changes in, the mine subsidence "trough" that lies under the headquarters building.

The drilling is expected to cost as much as $30,000, he said.

Cooley said a final analysis by the rapid response team will determine whether the headquarters will relocate. He said he believed some action would be taken in the near future.

"Because of governmental red tape, it takes a certain amount of time to get these things done. I just hope something doesn't happen before that," Cooley said. But he hastened to add that the situation as it now exists does not appear to pose any danger to those working in the headquarters building. He noted that a check of the radio tower after the tremors revealed no movement.

Huffman, too, does not believe there is cause for alarm at this point. The building and tower are monitored daily for any changes, he noted.

Regardless of whether the headquarters remains in its present location or is moved, the radio tower will be taken down.

Its dismantling, originally scheduled for early last week, was expected to begin this week, according to Huffman.

Use of the tower ended two weeks ago, he said, after equipment was moved to Harrel and SIUE.

The change has not and will not produce any interruption in service, Huffman said. There have been some noise level problems, but the strength of the state police radio signal has actually improved in some areas, he added.

A consultant for the rapid response team, contacted by Huffman, said the tremors may have been caused by a widening of the subsidence trough, by a "soil creep" (soil settling into the trough) or by settlement of the building itself.

With effects of the mine subsidence continuing to show up, at least one state police official believes relocation is inevitable. Huffman does not hold this view, although he acknowledges that the subsidence is probably more stable now, with frost in the ground, than it will be this spring.

The subsidence was first noticed last May 12 when a three-quarter-inch gap appeared in a wall of the communications lab. The shift commander's wall moved an inch to the west. Cracks appeared in the asphalt parking lot outside.

From June to July last year, the width of some of the structural separations doubled.

Geologist Robert Gibson of the rapid response team found that three inches of ground movement under the building had occurred between mid-May and July.

Last summer, special supports were put on the tower and metal braces and wood planks were used to shore up a wall of the headquarters building. The subsidence appears to be working its way slowly into other areas of the building.

A long crack, approximately an inch and a half in width, extends across the floor of the lobby, and the floor's surface is no longer level. Other cracks have shown up on one lobby wall. A chunk of the concrete-block wall in the communications lab had broken away.

The headquarters building is located over a portion of the old Donk Brothers Coal and Coke Company Number Two mine. The mine, abandoned in 1925, sits 230 feet below the surface.

Marsha Floyd, 113 Grenzer Homes, Madison, reported to police Monday that a former boyfriend had accosted her in the rear yard of her home, struck her on the head and grabbed her purse.

The man then ran into another apartment, she said. Police talked with the man, who said he had thrown the purse on the ground nearby.

An officer searched the area, but failed to find the purse, the report states.

Miss Floyd was advised to contact the state's attorney's office to file a complaint.

Cahokia Mounds museum needs volunteer workers

The Cahokia Mounds Museum needs volunteers on a year-round basis to give tours and lectures, work on exhibits and displays, maintenance, and archaeological laboratory work.

The site is a fascinating archaeological find, but help from the community must be enlisted in order to accomplish certain goals.

Cahokia Mounds is a state historical site, which preserves the remains of the central section of the only prehistoric Indian city north of Mexico. The 1300-acre state site has a recorded number of 97 mounds. There were originally 100 mounds, but many were destroyed by cultivation before the numbering system began.

The mounds were once a part of the prehistoric Indian city of Cahokia. The city covered about six square miles, and had a population of tens of thousands. Volunteer work at the Cahokia Mounds site should prove to be an interesting and rewarding experience. Interested persons may contact either Elaine or Joan at 344-5268, Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Bid opening April 2 on building multi-purpose facility for SIUE

Construction of the proposed multi-purpose facility at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville could begin as early as mid-April, if bids opened by the Illinois Capital Development Board April 2 are within the acceptable guidelines of the CDB, according to State Sen. Sam Vadala (D-Edwardsville).

Vadala announced Tuesday the date for the bid openings on the estimated $11 million facility, which will include a gymnasium, indoor swimming pool and other physical education and recreation facilities.

Currently, SIUE is the only state-supported institution of higher learning in the state which lacks such a facility.

Vadala noted that in the last bid opening for the facility, the bids were about $2 million over the engineers' estimates and were rejected by the CDB. The facility now has been redesigned to reduce the cost and the senator said he is hopeful that bidding April 2 will result in a contract for construction, which could begin in mid-April.

Bids from mechanical contractors will be opened at 11 a.m. April 2 at the CDB office in Springfield and bids from the general contractors will be opened at 3 p.m. the same day.

"I have been working on this for 14 years and I hope that this, my 15th year of pushing for this facility, will be the one in which construction starts. It is estimated the building will take two and one-half to three years to complete.

"The multi-purpose building will make the SIUE campus a total facility and this will be a good boost to the economy, not only in the construction jobs during its building, but in the people it will employ afterwards," Vadala concluded.

Seek volunteers for drug abuse prevention

Persons interested in volunteering to aid in the fight against alcohol and drug abuse are urged to attend a meeting of AID (Aid through Information on Drugs) at the Collinsville Building and Loan, 701 Beltline, Collinsville, at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Counselors, social workers, youth workers and concerned community members will discuss the Region Four Operation Snowball, designed to help youths avoid alcohol and drug abuse.

Operation Snowball uses a peer leadership and education program modeled after the Illinois Teenage Institute on Substance Abuse. According to a spokesman, "The purpose of the program is to educate high school age youth regarding alcohol and other drugs and to enlist them in the prevention of substance abuse through positive peer pressure."

Approximately 80 teenagers and 20 staff members will attend an Operation Snowball camp in Makanda, Ill., near Carbondale, April 24 to 26. Funds are being sought to help sponsor youths for the camp. It will cost $60 per teen, including room, food and transportation.

Additional information on AID and Operation Snowball is available from Mary Freeman at 345-5090 between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. weekdays.

Journalism scholarships

Applications are being accepted by the Journalism Foundation of St. Louis from area college students who wish to compete for 12 journalism scholarships, ranging from $600 to $750 each, Ron Willson, chairman, has announced. A $200 cash prize for photojournalism also will be given.

Applicants must live in the St. Louis metropolitan area, including St. Clair, Madison and Monroe counties in Illinois.

College students must be enrolled for the 1981 fall term in a studies program leading to a degree in journalism or mass communications, and be completing their sophomore, junior or senior years, or be in graduate school.

Deadline for applications, with all supporting materials, is March 15.

Applications can be obtained from Journalism, English or communications department chairmen, financial aid officers or campus newspaper editors at colleges and universities.

Applications are also available from Marilee Martin, scholarship coordinator, Journalism Foundation of Metropolitan St. Louis, c/o CASA, The St. Louis Conservatory and Schools for the Arts, 560 Trinity Ave., St. Louis 63130.

Scholarship winners are chosen on the basis of aptitude, interest in pursuing a journalism or communications career, academic standing and financial need.

Group agrees with curriculum changes

The Vocational Advisory Council of the Granite City school district, at a dinner meeting last week, concurred with curriculum changes in the business education program at the two Granite City high schools.

The industrial education committee made recommendations on the next house to be constructed by high school building trades students. It is proposed to reduce the size and to add an energy-efficient fireplace.

Discussions also included adding diesel mechanics to the automotive instructional program, and studying the possibility of a vocational registration counselor at each high school.

Chairman Ron Hicks presided and committee meetings were conducted. The home economics group noted additions to the content of various courses.

Suggestions for the next meeting included a presentation on a career education pilot class that is now in progress, a presentation by the vocational placement counselor, and a visit to the building trades house currently under construction.

Those attending included Louis Bisto, Mildred Chandler, Millie Collins, Jane Fears, Inis Gann, Don Gerstenecker, Jo Meyer, Judith Hensley, Dave King, Jake Parmley, Cat's Ribbold, Larry Talbert, J. ek Vizer, Lois Woods and Vocational Education Director Thomas Holloway.

Group aids bereaved parents

The Madison County Chapter of the Compassionate Friends will be conducting a fund-raising drive beginning Saturday and continuing through the month of February.

The Compassionate Friends is a self-help organization for bereaved parents. Its purposes are to help parents resolve the grief experienced upon the death of a child and to foster the physical and emotional health of parents, grandparents, and siblings.

The organization began in England in the late 1960's, came to America in 1972, and now has more than 200 chapters in this country and other chapters around the world.

The Madison County Chapter was established in 1977 by Sherman and Mary Wildman and Laura Peters, all of Moro, Ill. The Wildmans lost their 24-year-old son, a young man within a few months of ordination to the ministry, in an automobile accident.

Mrs. Peters lost a grandson in a bicycle accident and her son, after the bereavement, had organized the fourth Compassionate Friends chapter in the United States. He currently is national president of the organization.

The Madison County Chapter meets on the first Friday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the Wood River Township Meeting Hall. Some meetings feature presentations by professionals in counseling, social work or the medical profession, followed by opportunities for questions and discussion. Some meetings are "rap sessions" among the members.

In addition to meetings, the group sends out a monthly newsletter, provides a library of helpful reading material, and, perhaps most important, provides a long list of telephone contacts for persons who are available to talk frequently and at length with any bereaved parent who needs to talk.

Although it is difficult to determine precise membership figures for an organization which charges no dues, requires no formal membership registration, and does not intend to be a lifelong membership organization but only to serve people for as long as their needs last, the newsletter is now being mailed to more than 100 persons and, in its third and one-half year existence, the Madison County Chapter estimates that it has served three or four times that many.

In its first few years, the group has functioned on donations from its own members and a few friends, but it has become increasingly difficult to maintain all of the services of the group in this way.

In addition, the group would like to expand its services. Although area professionals have donated time to speak to the group and to serve on its advisory board, there are programs which would not be available free which would be helpful.

The organization also would like to provide informational films and speakers to area organizations and hopes to be able to send local members to conferences and workshops on grief resolution.

Members will be contacting service groups and professional organizations in their own area to ask for contributions to the local chapter.

Persons interested in further information on the group may contact Sherman and Mary Wildman at 1-377-8574.

Plan April 4 reunion for former GCHS band members

All former members or associates of the Granite City High School Band are being invited to the band's first full reunion Saturday, April 4, at Augustine's Restaurant, 1200 Centerville Ave., Belleville.

There will be a cash bar for social hour from 6 to 7 p.m. with a buffet dinner served at 7:30 p.m. Dinner will be followed by dancing to the music of the Terry Dutko Quintet.

Tickets are $15 per person or $30 per couple and checks should be mailed by Friday, Feb. 20, to Mr. and Mrs. K.C. McMillan, 2991 Springwater Drive, St. Louis, Mo. Those making reservations are asked to indicate the year they graduated, the maiden names for married women, the musical instrument played and whether the former band members still are actively playing the instrument.

Old photos or memorabilia from Granite City High School Band trips or activities may be mailed with the reservations for display at the reunion. They should be clearly marked with the owners' names and will be returned to the owners the night of the event.

Motel accommodations will be available at the Executive Inn, which adjoins the restaurant, and reservations for those wishing to spend the night may be made by calling 1-233-1234.

Anyone knowing of former band members now living out of town may contact any member of the reunion committee so invitations can be sent to them.

TRUCK LOT THEFTS

Two 12-volt batteries worth a total of $140 were stolen from parked trucks, and the hoods of other trucks were raised last week at Means' Services, 2600 Rock Road. A chain link fence was cut to gain entry to the parking lot.

Trojans top Class 'A' poll

GRANITE CITY — Madison is still king of the hill. After whipping Class AA power East St. Louis 104-94 last week, it became obvious to basketball observers around the state that the Trojans were the team to reckon with come state tournament time. Not only was Madison voted number one in this week's Press-Record coaches poll, they could very well have been considered the best team in this area altogether — whether Class A or Class AA.

Supported by a 19-2 record, the Trojans (ranked second in the state-wide Associated Press Poll) also collected all but one first place vote and 69 of the total 70 votes cast. The Panthers of Pinckneyville (20-3) were the culprit of the other first place vote. Pinckneyville made another strong showing, edging out Okawville (20-4) for second spot by one vote. The Rockets' drop to third was the first shift in their standing in five weeks.

Bunker Hill continued to make progress toward the top of the stack. The Minutemen are still the only undefeated team left in the area with a 19-0 record and pulled into fourth, just four points behind Okawville.

At 15-4, Lovejoy rounds out the top five, well behind Bunker Hill with 40 votes. The bottom half of the class weeks poll has Freeburg (18-4) in sixth, Waterloo Sr. (16-5) seventh and the Venice Red Devils (7-12) remained

Fernandez headed for SLU

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Former Granite City South soccer star David Fernandez today announced his intentions to accept a full-ride scholarship to attend St. Louis University next fall.

Fernandez, who led South to four consecutive state championships and led the team in scoring the season, had narrowed the field to three possibilities — the University of Connecticut, St. Louis U. and the San Diego Sockers of the North American Soccer League (he was drafted in December by the franchise). To no one's surprise, he picked SLU. The scholarship is worth an estimated $30,000.

"There's no one single reason I picked St. Louis," said Fernandez. "It's a combination of the whole program there. The soccer talent there, the school, the tradition and the education."

Fernandez, who was named All-American the last two seasons and All-State last three, is the third prep blue-chipper signed by Billiken coach Harry Keough. He's already received commitments from All-Americans Mike Menendez of C.B.C. and goalie Pat Baker of Rivergreen Gardens (cousin of Granite City South head coach Gene Baker).

Keough had an unusual advantage in recruiting Fernandez. He's a personal friend of the Fernandez family. "It wasn't that much of an advantage over the area (college) coaches," said Keough. "But I did get a chance to see David play all through his childhood. I've known his father (Lou) for years. In a way, I've been recruiting David since he was 8 years old. Of course, I didn't make him an offer, but I was able to keep track of him."

"Even then he looked like a sure-shot player," Fernandez said, that staying in the St. Louis area had a bearing on his choice. "A lot of bearing," he said. "I've kind of had this St. Louis against Illinois thing since I was about 9 or 10. I really want a chance to play with some of these guys I've been playing against for so long."

Baker, the winningest coach in Illinois state soccer history, is himself a St. Louis University alumnus. He played fullback for (now-SIU Edwardsville) coach Bob Guetler during St. Louis U.'s undefeated national championship season of 1965. Baker was elated with Fernandez's choice. "He's gone from high school to possibly starting on the best college team in the country next season," said Baker, who admitted part of the reason for his gladness selfishness. "I'm glad he stayed in this area, so I can get a chance to watch him play," he said. "I've made up my mind. Some of the coaches put a lot of pressure on Coach Guetler to let me have my decision by January 15. That was just too early."

Baker agreed. "Harry's a good man," he said. "He's a nice man who's also a hell of a soccer coach. His reputation speaks for itself."

As for the team he'll field next season, Keough said, "I hope it's as good as everybody says it will be. But I think we'll have a shot at being up there."

Fernandez will fit in where "David's the kind of player who can step in and start. He was always about two or three steps ahead of the people he played against in high school. Not just physically, but mentally," said Keough. "I don't make any promises. I'd be a fool to. But he has the skill to play."

"He's an all-around player," said Keough. "He can play anywhere on the field. It's not just his shooting and it's not just his ball-handling. He can do it all. We'll use him as a wingman and attacking midfielder."

"At St. Louis U., I don't recruit a player for what he can do two or three years from now. He has the potential to be a starter from the word go."

Fernandez will sign the NCAA letter of intent to play at St. Louis U. sometime early in March. The first actual workout will probably be sometime around Aug. 15, 19 days from the first game of the season, according to Keough.

GRANITE CITY — Forty minutes is all you're supposed to be able to play in a high school basketball game. The Granite City South girls squad could have probably used about thirty seconds more here Tuesday.

Storming back from a 12-point deficit, the Warriors just plunked an out of time against Belleville West as they dropped a 53-52 heartbreaker.

The matchup between the Maroons and South was ideal. West, ranked number two in this week's P-R Girls Basketball Poll, was supported by a 13-1 record. The Warriors are ranked number three in the poll and were undefeated at 9-0. The finale was something to watch.

Trailing as much as 14 points during the game, South had its back against the wall. Down by 12 with just eight minutes to play, the Warriors responded like a cornered animal. They went on the attack. It would be better to say, Chris Boyd and Nita Graham took over.

The pair combined to score 18 of South's 21 fourth quarter points. Buckets by Graham and Boyd and a free throw by Susan Jeffries drew the Warriors to within three, 51-48 with less than 20 seconds to play.

For the first time, things were going South's way. The Maroons had gone to the free throw line eight times in the second half and came away empty handed. But as fate would have it, West's Jane Sperry connected on her charity tosses with 24 seconds left. It forced the Warriors in an all out effort to score and get the ball back.

"Jane is the one person I would have liked at the free throw line at that time," said West head coach Larry Betz. "We lost our poise for about three minutes and you have to give them (South) a lot of credit. They seized the opportunity and took advantage of our mistakes and got back into the game."

The Warriors didn't waste much time as Graham drilled in her final two points for the game. She headed South's attack with 24. Down by three, South needed the ball and Terri Schuler caused the important turnover, giving South another chance.

With eight seconds left, Boyd muscled in a shot, but all West had to do was hold on to the ball out of bounds. "There was no way with eight seconds left that they (South) should have beat us, if we did the right things," said Betz. "I told Sandy (Grass) to get the ball out of bounds and stand against the wall. We kind of dug ourselves in a hole. We just had to keep our cool and hold on."

The Maroons had to hold on dear life. South out-scored them in the final quarter 21-10.

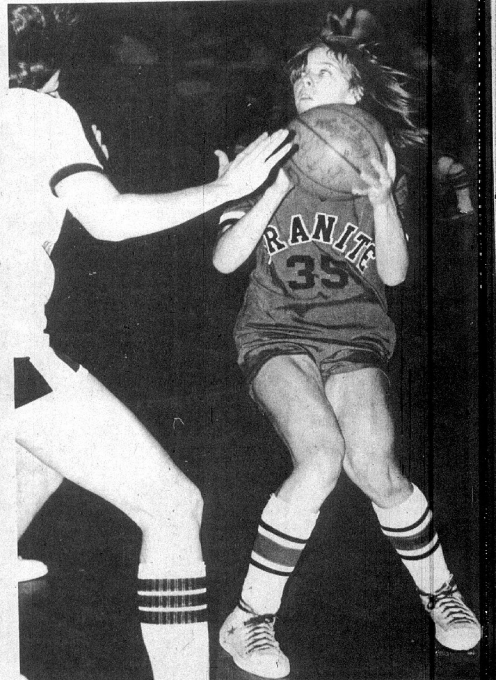

The strong performance by Boyd in the second half just wasn't enough. "It was a too little too late," said Boyd. Her nine for 18 effort from the field netted 18 points with 12 coming in the last 16 minutes. She also pulled down a team high 12 rebounds.

"Graham helping Boyd is not that anymore," said South head coach Gary Morgan. "They are becoming a solid one-two punch. The problem tonight was nobody else did anything."

The twosome couldn't handle the entire load, especially against a very physical Maroon team. "West is very good, big team," said Morgan. "They run a good one-three-one zone defense and if they are allowed to set back in it, they'll kill you on the boards."

During the first half, the Maroons used it's physicalness to fullest extent that the referees would allow as they maintained a stable 10 point lead throughout.

"When you let West play physical, they'll overpower you," said Morgan. "We got blown away by them last year and girls knew how good they were. West has evened up. Sure they were nervous, but we didn't get the breaks we grabbed 10 rebounds. "As long as Edwards was in the game, we didn't change anything," said Betz. "They (South) caught fire in that last quarter. I think they might have anyway with Melody in the game. Beating South up here is tough, though. Edwards's departure was certainly a big break for South, but the Maroons still had two other scoring machines. Donnie Weiss (Continued on Page 23)

Venice invited to join new conference

VENICE — Venice High School has been invited to join a new conference currently being formed by Highland St. Paul, Belleville St. Henry, Metro-East Lutheran and Livingspring. And according to VHS Athletic Director Ken Perkins, the outlook appears promising.

"I'd say right now that we probably would join," said Perkins. "Of course, it'd take school board approval."

Perkins said the four schools already mentioned are definitely forming the loop. "They're in," he said. "Now they're trying to find a few more schools to join up. We've been invited and I think Alton Marquette and Valmeyer have been too."

In addition, Worden has been invited by the group to join the conference. But according to Perkins, the north

Girls' poll the same

GRANITE CITY — Things went as usual this week in the Press-Record's weekly Girls' Prep Basketball Coaches' Poll. East St. Louis Lincoln keeps right on rollin' along.

And Belleville West and Granite City South kept right on fightin' it out for second. The poll was proven out Tuesday night when West edged out South by one point (see related story) in a barn-burner. South's Memorial Gymnasium. The heat generated inside the gym wasn't enough to melt the ice and snow in the blizzard outside, but ended up naming one of the best girls' basketball games of the season and the most exciting basketball game (boys or girls) played in South's Gym for quite a while.

Belleville East and Triad broke up the next two spots. Triad could have made some gains in the poll, but dropped an overtime decision to Granite City South at Kiel Auditorium last Tuesday (those results weren't included in last week's poll).

SIUE Cougars looking for good baseball

In the outfield, the Cougars are counting on George Vogel in centerfield, Joel Housewright in rightfield, and Darrel Wehrend in leftfield. "We have as good of a defensive outfield as has ever played here," said Collins. "They can run and they can throw," he said. "Available for outfield duties, too, will be veteran Rich Kantner."

Housewright, who is propped at Maplewood High (St. Louis county), will start in rightfield this year after sitting out last season. He was redshirted when he transferred from Jefferson Junior College. Darrel Wehrend is one of Collins' recruits coming over from Lewis and Clark. Wherever played high school ball at Edwardsville, Collins has moved him to leftfield this year to utilize his speed. He batted .380 at Lewis and Clark and has played first base in the past. "He prefers outfield much better," said Collins. Wherever has also shown a lot of speed on the basepaths. "I wouldn't be surprised if he leads the team in stolen bases," said Collins. Charles Hodges, a freshman walk-on outfield prospect, should also see a lot of action this year.

INFIELD
The infield will probably have Dan Ritzeheimer at firstbase, Tom Greco, a graduate of Granite City North, at secondbase, and Jay Kruckman at thirdbase. Collins admits that his biggest weakness will be his middle infield. Lakin could also see action at first base.

Vince Nyman, a freshman recruit from House Springs, Mo., and Jackie Baugher, a freshman walk-on, will be fighting for the job. "Both played pretty even in the fall," said Collins. "We will have to decide between now and the start of the season," he said.

The Cougars, because of their over average speed at every position, will run as much as possible. "No doubt that we will score runs," he said. Roger Thomas will handle most of the designated hitting this year.

Cougars get revenge

Special to the Press-Record
EDWARDSVILLE — The Southern Illinois University Cougars gained revenge for a seven-point loss earlier this season by defeating Millikin (Decatur) 73-63 at the Edwardsville High School gym here Monday night.
The victory raised SIUE's record to 10-13 on the season. Randall Jones, a graduate of Madison High School, was the hot shooter for the Cougars. A junior, Jones pumped in five of seven shots early in the second half to keep SIUE in front when it looked like Millikin might make a run. He finished the game with a seven-of-12 performance from the field and scored 17 points.

Ted Smith of SIUE was also hot against the Big Blue. One of the top free throw shooters in the nation among NCAA Division II players, Smith made eight of nine free throw attempts and was five-of-nine from the field. He finished with 18 points, good enough to edge out Jones for game-high honors.

COUGARS (73): Smith 18, Padgett 8, Pickowitz 18, Rabbes 11, Felton 7, Jones 17, FG 25, FT 17, PF 14.
MILLIKIN (63): Kupish 16, Dunning 14, Sams 6, Patton 2, Jackson 16, Goodrich 4, Miller 5, FG 27, FT 9, PF 20.
HALFTIME: SIUE 36, Millikin 36.

Area man goes for triathlon

By TERESA GULL
for the Press-Record

EDWARDSVILLE — His training is unending. Five hours each day, his feet pound the ground, his legs pump up and down, and his arms stroke rhythmically. By the end of the week, he has run 70 to 80 miles, swum five to six miles, and biked 100 miles. Months of hard work, pain, and dedication to compete are directed toward a once-in-a-lifetime chance.

For Steve Weeks, a student at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, his chance, his challenge will come Feb. 14 in Hawaii. On that day, Weeks will be participating in a grueling one-day event—the triathlon.

His day will begin by swimming two and one-half miles in the ocean, followed by biking 110 miles over rough, hilly Hawaiian lands, and capped off by running a marathon—26.2 miles. He expects it will be a 15-hour day.

Only 100 to 125 men have finished all three events in the three years the triathlon has been held. More than 350 men are supposed to compete this year. Weeks plans to be one of the men who finish.

It's not a superhuman act. You just do it. It's what you get used to. I haven't gained the market on endurance abilities," stressed Weeks. "It can't be a superhuman feat. I'm a runt. I'll probably be one of the smallest guys there."

Weeks stands only 5'8" and weighs a mere 130 pounds. His slim, wiry 25-year-old stature looks incapable of passing this grueling test, but every inch of his body is packed with strong, developed, unyielding muscles.

Weeks wasn't always in shape with his body. In high school he was a sinner. He joined the U.S. Army and continued to sit and grow fat. Two months before he was to be released from the Army in July 1977, he had to run a two-mile race. He finished last out of 40 people, including the women.

He then enrolled at Eastern Illinois University and felt fatter and older than all the other students. He started running to lose weight and shed 35 pounds.

In February 1978, he was rewarded for his hard work. He had to run a race of four miles for the Army Reserve. This time, however, instead of bringing up the rear, he led the pack of 80 people.

Weeks started enjoying his daily runs of a couple of miles each day. A move to Alton to attend SIUE opened the door to sell running shoes and to view running in a different light.

"Everytime I sold a pair of running shoes, the customer would ask me, 'Have you ever run a marathon?'" said Weeks. He got tired of telling them no, so he made up his mind to run one marathon. Three months later, in September 1979, Weeks ran his first marathon and swore he "would never run another."

"But three weeks later, he ran himself through that grueling test again, and two weeks later, he completed another 26.2-mile race. Weeks was hooked on running."

"I'm not a fast runner—just a medium runner. I'm too slow to qualify for the Boston Marathon," said Weeks. "I just enjoy running. I plan to run until I

The possibility of injury during the triathlon in the back of Weeks' mind. He doesn't live in fear of it, but he knows a torn hamstring muscle, a sprained ankle, or a twisted knee could prevent him from crossing the finish line.

"I know an injury might happen, and I do what I can to prevent it—what I believe is good practice to prevent it," said Weeks. "If my muscles are tired, I'll skip a day of training to rest. 'Doing something like this is not particularly healthy. I'm not in the health aspect because I know I'm healthy. I'm happy to have my health. It's a heck of a challenge just trying for the triathlon. You're always at the break of an injury when you're at your peak performance.'"

Weeks doesn't believe he has a weak event. He believes his toughest psychological goal to conquer will be swimming two and one-half miles in the ocean.

He has never swum in the ocean before, but that doesn't bother him. "I'm sure it's just like the YM-C-A," laughed Weeks.

The bright Hawaiian sun and the 80-degree temperatures will be a factor in determining his fate, but he hopes he can adjust to the warmer climate by being in Hawaii nine days before the competition.

If he can't adjust, the triathlon officials will let him know. Throughout the competition, he will be weighed five times. If he loses six percent of his body weight, he will receive warnings. He loses 10 percent, he is out of the competition.

If he doesn't finish the triathlon, Weeks has other goals to conquer. He plans to graduate in December with degrees in recreation and psychology and pursue a career in industrial recreation. He knows he's prepared himself to the best of his ability for the event, and fate will decide his outcome.

"I've done what I can. I've been working my rear off. It's a once-in-a-lifetime thing. I want to know if I can do it. I'm going to give it one heck of a try," he said.

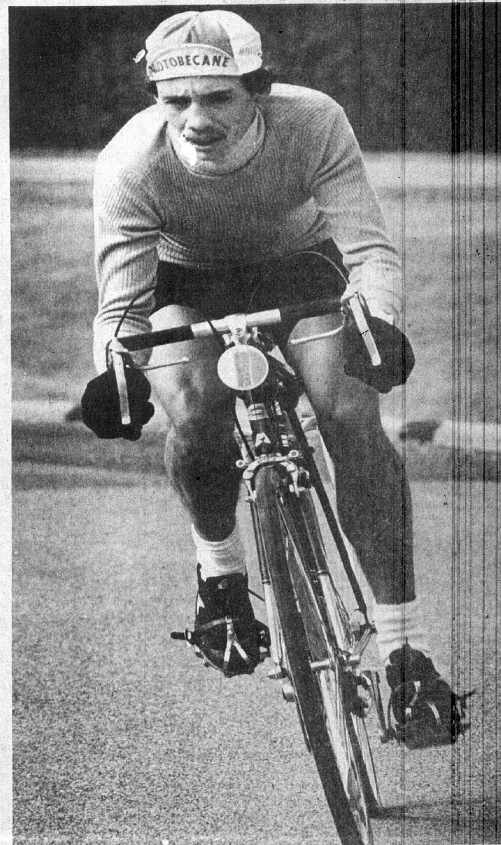

Weeks has heard about the triathlon on TV and had read about it in books. It sounded like the ultimate challenge to him—both physically and psychologically.

Even though it isn't an intercollegiate competition, SIUE agreed to help him conquer this challenge by assisting with his expenses. "I appreciate their (SIUE) helping students who have different abilities other than the normal collegiate activities," said Weeks. "A lot of people here have been very supportive in my training—friends, students, and faculty. That is a big help."

"My wife has been very supportive in helping me with this. She thinks I'm nuts, though. The neighbors wonder if I'm crazy."

Weeks isn't aiming to finish first. He doesn't see himself as a competitive person. He just wants to finish with class. "The only thing I compete at is trying to better myself. There's always going to be somebody better than me," Weeks said.

"I do it for the enjoyment. This is my Boston and beyond."

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT. Practice is the secret to success, and Steve Weeks hopes his many hours of training will pay off when he participates in the triathlon Feb. 14 in Hawaii.

The tournament will run Feb. 16, 17 and 18 and will be played at both the Greenwood (new) Collinsville High campus and the Vandallia campus.

South (9-1) will play Alton in the second game of the event at session Feb. 16 at 8 p.m. at Greenwood. In the first game of the session, Belleville East will face Cahokia at 6:30 p.m. That same night at the Vandallia gym, Mascoutah will face Nerinx Hall of St. Louis at 6:30 and Collinsville will play Granite City North at 6:30 p.m. at the Greenwood.

Denver signs Cougar

EDWARDSVILLE — Tim Guelker, 1980 co-captain of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville soccer team, has signed a three-year contract to play indoor soccer with the Denver Avalanche. He will begin play immediately with the Major Indoor Soccer League team.

During the immediate past season, Guelker led all Cougars with 14 points on 10 goals and four assists.

These 14 points, plus his previous total of 29 as a freshman, sophomore and junior, give him a total of 48 points, sixth best in Cougar soccer history.

Guelker was versatile: he played forward, midfielder and defender. He started as sweepback last fall.

North's Steve Sues hit the winning basket with less than 20 seconds remaining in the overtime period. He was Collinsville's leading scorer with 17 points.

Madison was led in scoring by Newsum with 16 points.

CAGE NOTES — The blizzard that has hit the Quad-

GRANITE CITY — The issue to the best wrestling team in the area was decided at Granite City South last Thursday. According to the board of coaches on the Granite City Press Record Prep Wrestling Poll, the choice was made during the Christmas holidays.

In the final regular season poll, the Granite City South Warriors, owners of a 21-1 record and winners of their own holiday tournament, were a unanimous pick again as the best area team. The Warriors collected all seven first place votes.

"This has been one of our better years," said South head coach Bill Schmitt. "It has been a good year. You can tell your accomplishment something with the type of record we had, but a lot of it is yet to come."

The Warriors completed a very successful season with a 54-11 stonking of Belleville Albion over the weekend. But, the Granite City North Steeler ended their season on a sad note when they lost to cross-town rival South. It was North's first loss of the year as the Steelers compiled a 17-1-2 mark.

Finishing behind South was the team of coaches' decision all year. The Steelers placed second in the poll and dropped off a point in the standings as one of the votes picked them for third.

It was that same coach that gave the Roxana Shells a second place vote. It didn't mean much, because they gained just that one tally and remained in third. The Shell's season was also very successful. With a 16-1 record, their only loss was to South and their tie was with North.

Although the Maroons of Belleville West didn't exactly have the awesome squad of past years, they did manage to keep in respectable range of the top teams. Dropping from a 23-0 record in 1980 to 14-5 this year, West moved into fourth place in the first season count. The loss of nine wrestlers from that strong team last year took its toll.

East St. Louis came into its own right as a wrestling power this season. Losing only to South and West, the Flyers, with a 16-2 record, finished in fifth place. They just did edge out Belleville East, which according to head coach Russ Buum was the Lancers' worst season ever.

East (8-9) came in sixth, followed by Cahokia (10-9), which had an excellent start at 10-1, O'Fallon, Bethalto (15-9) and Edwardsville.

GRANITE CITY — The East St. Louis Lincoln Tigers held on to first place in this week's Press-Record Class B Basketball Coaches' Varsity Poll, despite a 16-point loss to number one ranked (statewide) Quincy last Saturday. But — red-hot Edwardsville, owner of an 11-game winning streak, including a one-point win over arch-Gateway East rival Cahokia last Friday, is gaining. Edwardsville's Tigers picked up three first place votes from the coaches this week, good enough to vault them from third into second place. It's the first time since early in the season that Edwardsville has picked up any first place votes.

The rest of the field remained about the same as last week. The only exception is that Granite City South received enough votes to vault the Warriors into 11th place. South put up a good fight Friday before losing an eight-point decision to Collinsville. Saturday night, South defeated Belleville East.

Eagle Scouts take over state

Thirty-six Eagle Scouts from Boy Scout councils throughout Illinois celebrated "State Citizenship Day" last week in Springfield.

The event was held in conjunction with the 71st anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America.

Thirty-six Scouts and Explorers, selected by their respective councils for outstanding leadership qualities, were afforded an opportunity to "take over" an important elected or appointed state office for the day.

Each council representative was offered a chance to campaign for one of six elected state offices.

An election followed and the results determined which Eagle Scout filled the office.

The remainder of the youths were assigned by the Eagle Scout governor and his cabinet to various posts.

Mike Mercer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mercer of Granite City, Eagle Scout representative for the Cahokia Mound Council, Boy Scouts of America, was elected to serve as lieutenant governor.

The three-day program in Springfield was under the direction of Judge Richard Mills of Virginia, Ill., Judge A. L. Pezman of Hardin, Judge Paul C. Verticchio of Carlinville and Judge James Heiple of Pekin.

Climaxing the three-day event was the "Governor's Luncheon," which featured an address by Illinois Governor James R. Thompson and the swearing into office of the Eagle Scouts.

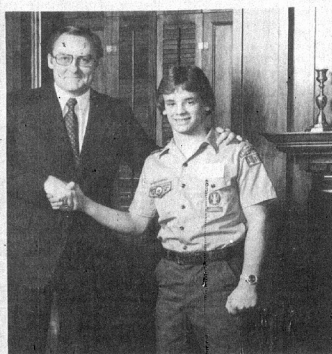

The same day, each Eagle Scout spent several hours with his specific state office holder, virtually taking over his job to learn more about state government.

The Granite City Eagle Scout spent the afternoon with Lieutenant Governor Dave C. O'Neal, learning about the latter's duties and responsibilities.

Mike is an active member of Boy Scout Troop 102, whose chartered partner is Suburban Baptist Church of Granite City.

He is a member of the Order of the Arrow and has served his troop as a patrol leader and senior patrol leader.

Mike also has served for two years on the staff of Camp Sunnen Boy Scout Camp, near Potosi, Mo.

ILLINOIS GOVERNOR James R. Thompson greets Eagle Scout Mike Mercer of Granite City, one of 36 Eagle Scouts in Illinois chosen to "take over" a state office on State Citizenship Day. Mike, a member of Troop 102, sponsored by Suburban Baptist Church, was elected lieutenant governor and spent an afternoon with Lt. Gov. Dave C. O'Neal learning about his duties.

Pack Seven fetes scouts

The monthly meeting of Cub Scout Pack 7 sponsored by St. Joseph Church opened with a bridge to Boy Scouts ceremony for Greg Hagen and Norman Fulkerson who are leaving Webelos Den 1 for Boy Scout Troop 7. Greg Hagen received his Flaming Arrow patch and Norman Fulkerson received his Panther Patrol patch.

Den leader Diana Markovich presented Patrick Carney of Den 3 with his Bear book and Eric Markovich of Webelos Den 1 was presented with his citizenship badge.

All boys attending performed an Indian dance for their parents which they learned at their previous den meeting. A Dr. Frankenstein skit was performed by Eric Markovich, Raymond Guenther, Joey Kusmierczak, and Karl Markovich.

Another skit entitled "Cavemen" was performed by Joey Kusmierczak, Eric Markovich and Clayton McKinney. Eric Markovich performed a skit in sign language. The final skit was "German Sub" by Greg Hagen, Joey Kusmierczak, Eric Markovich, Karl Markovich and Raymond Guenther.

Scoutmaster Karl Markovich announced the pinewood derby would be March 20 and all cars are to be completed before that time. He also stated that the next pack meeting would be held at the blue and gold banquet Feb. 26.

Mrs. Markovich introduced Mrs. Alene Carney who will be the new leader of Den 3. Mrs. Carney announced that Den 3 meetings will now be held on Wednesday evenings at St. Joseph Church.

Boys attending were: Webelos Den 1, Clayton McKinney, Eric Markovich, Joey Kusmierczak, Greg Hagen, Norman Fulkerson and Donald Gray. Cub Den 2, Chris McCloud, and Tom Schmiedke. Cub Den 3, Matt McCloud, Patrick Carney, Charles Levy, Stephen Line and Ernie Walker.

Banking group to review legislation

Proposed banking legislation will be discussed Thursday, Feb. 19, in Belleville at Fischer's Restaurant by the Association for Modern Banking in Illinois.

The trade association has 270 members, consisting of all size banks, and says it represents 80 percent of the total banking assets in Illinois.

AMBI will hold a luncheon for editors and news directors at 12 noon, followed at 4 p.m. by a discussion of legislation for AMBI members and other interested bankers. A reception and dinner will follow for bankers and legislators at 5:30 p.m.

Among the topics will be regional multi-bank holding company legislation.

Legislative advocacy proposals include legislation to allow for amortization of bond premiums and deduction for expenses incurred in generating income from state, local and municipal bonds; removal of rate limitations on revolving and installment loans; installation of safety deposit boxes at limited-service facilities; permission for bank security guards to carry weapons off premises; revolving loan authorization to secure credit with an equity interest in real estate; and deletion of the requirement that school fund deposits be collateralized.

Dedicate center to Dr. Dooley

Dedication and opening of a ministry building is set for 8 p.m. Saturday at the National Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows, 9500 W. Ill. Rt. 15. The Dr. Tom Dooley Center will house Shrine programs and will be used to facilitate further growth in the area of ministry to individuals and the community.

Construction of the building began in May 1980. The 18,000-square-foot structure adjacent to the St. Joseph's Visitors Center consists of offices, counseling and activity rooms.

The Dooley Center is designed specifically for ministry; the Radio Information Service, closed-circuit broadcasting for the blind and handicapped; Victim Missionaries, a spiritual movement for the physically handicapped and chronically ill; the Living Resource Center, the Shrine's counseling and spiritual direction program; and offices for Fr. Edwin J. Guild, Shrine founder.

The ministry building is dedicated to the late Dr. Tom Dooley, who was named an honorary Oblate of Mary Immaculate the order of priests and brothers staffing the Shrine in 1968.

Dr. Dooley's relationship with the Oblates began in Laos when he set up a hospital to serve thousands of people in need of medical services. He and the Oblate missionaries shared a desire to improve the physical and spiritual lives of the people.

Joining in the dedication will be Bishop William Cosgrove, bishop of Belleville; Fr. William Westman, newly appointed director-general of the International Missionary Association of Mary Immaculate; and artist Siegfried Reinhardt, who has designed a glass memorial banner of Dr. Dooley.

After Saturday's 3 p.m. ceremony, an open house will be held from 3:30 to 5 p.m.

Banners to proclaim clean-up project

Banners proclaiming the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce annual clean-up scheduled for April 25 to May 1 will soon be appearing at prominent locations throughout the Quad-City area.

The giant banners will be placed at "high traffic" areas to remind residents of the massive cleanup campaign being planned for those days.

More than 1,300 Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts have volunteered to help in the cleanup and the Chamber is urging industries, businesses and families to plan clean-up programs in conjunction with the city-wide cleanup.

Trucks from the city will be available for removing large items and volunteers will be picking up smaller items in trash bags donated by the local McDonald's Restaurant.

In order to help publicize the event, the Community Pride Committee of the Chamber is preparing signs for store windows, is sponsoring a poster contest for local students and is planning numerous other activities to promote the clean-up, according to Ray Edwards, chairman of the committee.

Planned locations for the giant banners include Fourth Street and Broadway in Venice, Sixth Street and Madison Avenue in Madison, and Niedringhaus and Madison avenues, Nameoki and Johnson Roads, one in Pontoon Beach and another in Mitchell.

Former Smith workers back Dan Partney

A committee of former employees of the A.O. Smith plant here has endorsed the candidacy of Dan Partney for mayor of Granite City. It was announced Wednesday.

The committee said it had "joined together to explore the means of obtaining benefits and other opportunities after the unfortunate closing of the Granite City plant of A.O. Smith." In a joint statement, the committee said:

"This committee hereby enthusiastically endorses the candidacy of Dan Partney for mayor of Granite City. His program for development of new industry for Granite City is both imaginative and workable."

The endorsement was signed by Alex Toth, Harry Chism, Al Huber, Steve Ortiz, Frank Townsend and William Pries.

Alleges man takes purse

Linda Whitner, 629 Mercedola Ave., Venice reported at 4:30 p.m. Monday, a former boyfriend allegedly had struck her in the face and taken her purse and hat a short time earlier.

The victim said the man picked her up at her home and drove to a gas station in Granite City. Enroute back to Venice, near Fox Industries, the man struck her in the right eye with his fist, she told police.

Miss Whitner jumped from the car and ran to her sister's home in the 1200 block of College Street and called police.

She identified the man and an officer talked with him at 10 p.m. Monday. He denied hitting the woman and taking her purse.

Miss Whitner was advised to sign a complaint at the state's attorney's office.

Price to push for defense buildup

U.S. Rep. Melvin Price (D-23rd Ill.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, last week opened hearings into the U.S. national defense posture and Defense Department authorization for the 1981-82 fiscal year by calling for swift action on the part of Congress and cooperation with the new administration.

"It is time to produce what we need, to find the best we have and build it."

"It is time to get down to work," Congressman Price said in his opening statement.

Testifying before Rep. Price during the all-day session were Gen. David C. Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the chiefs of staff of all the military services.

The FY 1982 defense authorization bill is expected to total over $115 billion. "The new administration has signaled an increased commitment to national defense preparedness," Rep. Price said. He was among Congressional leaders called to the White House in late January to discuss national policy with President Ronald Reagan and Vice President George Bush.

"We are prepared to work with the administration to improve our national defense capability," Chairman Price continued, citing his own 33 years on the Armed Services Committee and his service under nine presidents. He has been a member of Congress 37 years.

Rep. Price briefly reviewed the defense situation, touching on several areas where he believes immediate attention is necessary.

He asserted that he was particularly disappointed in the request for naval ships in the proposed 1982 budget.

"Our fleets are stretched thin and our sailors are deploying for six months or more throughout the world," he said. "Our commitment to the Indian Ocean will remain throughout the foreseeable future."

"The lack of strategic sealift capability and the lack of an adequate land base in the Persian Gulf area are two major problems that would confront any attempt that we might make to rapidly deploy large land-based and air-based units to that area."

Rep. Price promised that the Research and Development Subcommittee, the chairmanship of which he will assume during the 97th Congress, will look to improve air and sealift capabilities over the short and long terms.

Additional areas of concern, he said, are physical plants for nuclear weapons, improved benefits for personnel, and military readiness.

Transit district bills have to wait until May

By EDGURNEY

The people hired to be the attorney and manager for the Madison County Mass Transit District won't get paid until May.

Not only will those people not be paid, but anyone doing business with the district will have to wait for their money, too. That was the word last week from Bill Haine, chairman of the district board.

The district board last month voted to establish a one-fourth cent sales tax (which went into effect Feb. 1), but money from it won't be received by the district until May.

Haine said it is the opinion of the state's attorney's office that the county cannot loan money to the district to pay bills received before the tax revenues come in.

The loan idea was discussed last week by the county board's finance committee. The district's expenses are expected to be minimal, other than the salary paid to the manager and fees paid to the attorney. The board of attorneys will be discussed at the board's next meeting at 1:30 p.m. today at the courthouse.

Board Member Vi Tucker of Collinsville proposed a manager be hired jointly by the Madison and St. Clair county transit districts.

Haine termed that idea "outrageous" and said an attempt will be made to meet with the St. Clair board to discuss it.

In other business at the transit board's meeting last week:

—Darryl Thompson of the Bi-State Development Agency told the board that the Illinois Department of Transportation has held up the transfer of some state subsidies to the bus firm.

IDOT administers the state subsidy, which comes from the regular state sales tax collected in St. Clair, Madison and Monroe counties.

The state's share is supposed to amount to 2-3¢ of the sales tax collected in the three counties. Thompson said IDOT transferred only half that amount in January.

He said the remainder was held up pending further assurances that the Madison County Mass Transit District would provide its part of the local subsidy. (The state had threatened to reduce its subsidy to 1-3¢ unless the local subsidies were provided.)

Haine was upset that IDOT wanted an additional certification. He said he thought the county complied with the law by establishing the transit district by Jan. 1 and by the district board voting to establish the tax.

"I hate to be rushed into a contract (with Bi-State) because a bureaucrat in Springfield or Chicago dreams up something," Haine said. The transit district and Bi-State are still discussing a temporary agreement to provide for bus service.

Thompson said he wasn't sure how much money was being held up. It is not yet a serious problem, he said.

The board asked state Sen. Sam Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville) and state Rep. Sam Wolf (D-Granite City) to have the legislature consider changes in the law governing transit districts.

Board Member Paul Schick of Granite City asked that the district board be given control over the state subsidy. It now just has control over the money raised through its one-fourth cent sales tax.

Haine said the change would give the transit board additional clout with Bi-State concerning its service in the county.

He also told the legislators that the transit district law did not provide for the board members to be bonded. Vadalabene said he didn't think it would be difficult to get the amendments approved.

The board heard Janis Grossman, Bi-State director of planning, describe the agency's history, projects and the bus route planning process.

The presentation was made because the transit board will be asking Bi-State to make route changes.

Haine noted that sales tax tables have been mailed to area businesses. The board wanted to have them mailed out earlier, but it didn't receive a list of businesses from the Illinois Department of Revenue until last week.

The Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission printed the Tables, and Specialized Services of Granite City stuffed the envelopes. Haine said, "We had a tremendous mailing at a minimum cost."

More funds granted to Nameoki sewer repair

Granite City now qualifies for more than $70,000 from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) for repair of the sewer break in the school yard of Nameoki School, a project now underway. Superintendent of Streets Lionel Portell has notified the Granite City Council.

Portell said recent checks with Victor Koenig, coordinator of Emergency Services and Disaster Agency (ESDA) activities in Granite City indicate that the city qualifies for another 25 percent "front money" to repair the sewer break, bringing the total available to more than $70,000.

Jan. 27, the city council authorized up to $50,000 for Portell's department to repair the sewer break and work began Wednesday.

Repair of the sewer without dewatering the area was made possible by the recent drought, which caused the underground water table to drop below the broken sewer for the first time since 1972.

The $50,000 allocated by the council, including about $43,000 "front money" already received from FEMA, including reimbursement for bypass pumping the city did around the break after the 1972 flood in this area caused the groundwater level to rise and damaged numerous sewers. The area was declared a disaster area, thus qualifying the breaks and pumping for federal reimbursement.

Portell said the additional 25 percent from FEMA may enable his workers to replace the sewer "manhole to manhole" in the damaged area, which will involve pipes between the manholes. About 1,200 feet of deep pipe have to be replaced and bypass pumping will be required around-the-clock during the repair work, which will require a month or more.

LONG-AWAITED REPAIRS of the major sanitary sewer break in the school yard behind Nameoki School began last week. City street department workers lower the base of a new manhole into position Thursday afternoon. The city council allocated $50,000 for the repairs which will include the replacement of some of the 1,200 feet of deep underground pipe which connects three manholes.

Health care cost rising

By STEPHEN M. SHORTELL

The health care system is perhaps the clearest expression of the basic American wish to "have our cake and eat it, too."

Individually we want to receive the benefits of the most advanced technologies — but without sacrificing personalized care.

We want ready access to needed care, but are alarmed about the soaring costs of care.

The fundamental issue is one of choice, at both the individual and societal levels. Important trade-off decisions will have to be made involving access to care, the number, type and continuity of services received; quality; and, especially, cost, which will be critical in shaping our health care system.

Most important, ways must be found through local health system agencies and other organizations to involve American consumers in these decisions.

The health care system performs an extraordinary range of services for millions of people every day. Yet, it is perceived to be in a crisis. Statistics help to tell the story.

— More than 78 percent of the population have a personal physician and an additional nine percent have a regular source of care, such as a hospital outpatient clinic.

— 76 percent of Americans see a physician at least once a year, with an overall average of four visits per person per year.

— Approximately 14 percent of the population are hospitalized every year.

— More than 230 million days of hospital care are provided to the 29 million patients admitted to hospitals each year.

— Over one million aged, disabled, and chronically ill are cared for in nursing homes.

— More than 1.5 billion prescriptions are filled every year for outpatient drugs to treat every conceivable kind of condition; and — The population-at-large and groups in special need as well have better access to medical care than ever before.

Most people are generally satisfied with their own physicians and their own care. Yet, despite the vast improvements in availability and access to care, and the enhancement in the quality of care, dissatisfaction with the health care system is widespread.

Why is it that over 60 percent of Americans believe there is a crisis in health care?

A MAJOR INDUSTRY. Part of the problem is the very size of the health care system.

Although most of us do not think of our personal physician and community hospital as parts of a huge industry, they are just that. The health care system is the nation's third largest industry, with a 1979 labor force of over six million people and expenditures of over $212 billion, representing approximately nine percent of the gross national product.

Between 1970 and 1977, employment in the health care industry grew at a rate more than twice that of businesses generally.

Seventy percent of the jobs in the health care industry are held by women, making it the largest single employer of women in the country.

Although physicians are most prominent in the health care system, they provide the bulk of health care. In addition to the traditional professions of medicine, nursing, pharmacy and dentistry, there are hundreds of professional and technical specialists who provide care or support services.

As health care grows in size and complexity, the conflict among these groups for economic rewards, prestige and influence.

Channeling this conflict in a position direction to promote better care is a major challenge.

The hospital has become the hub of the health care system. The 7,100 hospitals in the United States employ about three-fourths of all health care personnel and represent almost half of all health care expenditures. The cost of hospital care and the growing use of technology in the hospital are of particular concern.

More than $300 was spent on hospital care for every man, woman and child in the United States in 1977.

This was twice the amount spent on physician care, more than five times that spent for drugs or nursing home care, and more than six times that spent for dental services.

In 1960, only $50 per person was spent for hospital care. The increased cost is due to inflation, the expanding use of technology, the greater complexity of care, and the growing number of patients who receive care.

Nursing home care — like hospital care — is increasingly important. There are now more than one million chronically ill, disabled and elderly patients in the nation's 22,000 nursing homes.

The care ranges from superb to compassionate to deplorable.

Because nursing home care is costly, more and more community based alternatives, such as adult day-care and home health services, are being developed.

COSTS OF CARE.

In the long run, cost may prove the most crucial issue in the struggle to provide health care to all Americans. An increasing portion of our income and our tax dollar goes toward paying physicians, dentists, pharmacists and hospitals.

Our taxes pay for the care of the aged and the poor.

Medicare provides health insurance coverage for individuals 65 and over, for the totally disabled who receive cash assistance from Social Security, and for those with end-stage kidney disease.

Medicaid is a state-administered, federally supported program for the poor; eligibility and benefits vary widely from state to state.

Although most Americans have some form of health insurance coverage, and over half have some outpatient coverage, private health insurance actually pays for only about one-fourth of all care. The government and the individual patient pay for most care.

Third party payment — private insurance companies, Blue Cross-Blue Shield plans, Medicare, or Medicaid — is at the core of the controversy over skyrocketing costs.

Under this system doctors, patients and hospitals have virtually no incentive to cut down expenditures. As a result, costs continue to rise out of control.

Medical technology, which has grown tremendously in the past decade, has contributed greatly to advances in medical care — and to increased costs.

Technological developments have saved millions of lives, and yet they are often blamed for dehumanizing health care.

Over $1 billion a year is spent on medical technologies, such as sophisticated heart monitors, CAT scanners, kidney dialysis machines, artificial hips, and heart pacemakers.

Much of the staggering cost associated with technology is also connected to routine tests, such as blood counts and chest X-rays.

While few would deny the positive benefits of many of these technologies in prolonging and improving the quality of life, there is increasing concern over the costs involved — and the possibility that money in excess elsewhere might benefit greater numbers of people.

A SYSTEM OF PARADOXES.

Our health care system is characterized by paradoxes: it is both personal and impersonal; it is meeting many needs individually, but collectively it costs too much; it provides high quality care to many, but others are left out or have great difficulty in obtaining the care that most of us take for granted.

Getting sick is a very personal experience, but more and more it involves large organizations, such as multi-unit hospital systems, university medical centers, and physician group practices; highly specialized personnel; and complex methods of financing; and sophisticated technology.

We are experimenting with new ways of paying health-care providers and hospitals to encourage efficient use of resources. Physicians, for example, could be paid a lump sum to care for a defined number of patients.

We are also trying new forms of organizing care that emphasize prevention and outpatient treatment rather than expensive hospital care.

The success of such changes in financing and organization will largely determine the development of a more cost-effective health-care system and the future course of an industry that touches the lives of all Americans, from birth to death.

CAPTAIN STADJUHAR IN FIELD EXERCISE

Capt. Stanley R. Stadjuhar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stadjuhar of 3018 Nameoki Road, Granite City, was one of 10,000 2nd Armored Division soldiers from Fort Hood, Texas, who moved into the field for Exercise Hardened Steel II. The soldiers underwent three weeks of field training designed to prepare them to live and carry out their missions in a field environment.

City accepts insurance proposals

Friday the 13th may be a bad day for some, but Granite City officials are hopeful for some good news by that deadline, particularly from insurance companies which are being asked to submit alternate proposals to insure the health and major medical needs of city employees.

Proposals are being accepted through 4:30 p.m. Friday at the city clerk's office in city hall from insurance firms wishing to bid on health and major medical insurance for the city.

"I hope we get lots of proposals to study. Maybe we can save some money," Alderman Paul Ray Bowler, chairman of the city's finance committee, told the Press-Record.

He said he hopes the city can save between 25 and 30 percent, either through a new policy or by the city self-insuring its employees and carrying insurance only for catastrophic claims.

The current carrier of the health and major medical insurance for city employees, Golden Rule, has notified the city that it will terminate the coverage March 1, due to a high claims experience. Mayor Paul Schuler told the council at its last meeting that the city is not something precipitated by cancellation of our insurance.

Bowler said, "For six months, the mayor, the finance committee, the city attorney and Dave Nolan (administrative aide to the mayor) have been looking at alternatives. The city clerk has also been involved. We have met at least once or twice a month. This (cancellation) is not a surprise."

He said matching the budget to the new plan selected will be the most difficult chore. Now, the committee is simply "looking at many avenues to see which has the best rate."

In order to have an acceptable package adopted by March 1, Bowler said he plans to accept insurance proposals through Friday, Feb. 13, and then will report to the council at its Feb. 17 meeting on the proposals received.

A recommendation then will be formulated and presented to the council at its Feb. 24 meeting for approval. Schuler said that if the council fails to adopt a new medical insurance policy by March 1, he feels certain that Golden Rule can be persuaded to continue the city's coverage for a brief time, until a replacement package can be adopted by the city.

Bowler said he feels the city can come up with a better insurance package at lower rates either through self-insuring, or through a combination of conventional and self-insurance.

Plan model health fair

Health Fair '81 will hold a model health fair on Feb. 17 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Breckenridge Inn, Lindbergh Boulevard at Highway 40.

It will be a preview of the over 45 individual fairs that will be held throughout the metropolitan area April 2-12 in malls, civic centers, churches, colleges and hospitals. Areas served in April will include the Quad-Cities.

All of the fairs will provide free screening for anemia, blood pressure, weight and vision, as well as summary and referral services.

In addition, many sites will offer free screening for glaucoma, cancer, diabetes, podiatry, oral cancer, dental problems and hearing.

A blood chemistry test which screens for possible liver and kidney dysfunction, gall, and 20 other blood variables will be available at many sites for a $6 fee.

Last year, 20,000 individuals took advantage of the health fairs, 15,000 going through the screening process.

The fairs are made possible through the efforts of over 3,500 individuals who volunteered their time and expertise to provide the bi-state area with over $8,000,000 worth of free health screening, follow-up and health education.

The model fair will offer 10 screening stations and more than 20 educational exhibits. The public may participate in any or all of the screening stations. Those who plan to have the blood chemistry tests are to fast for four hours.

Book recalls early years in Illinois

By VALERIE EVENEDEN of the Press-Record

A Vandalia resident, who almost qualifies to be called a Quad-Cityan because of her frequent visits here over the years had her first book published at age 83 years.

Mrs. James Donaldson, mother of Mrs. Nigel Maeris of Granite City, is the author of "The Three of Us—Our Growing Up Years."

The book has been published by Don Hecke in Effingham and by the Pana Palladium Co. in Pana.

It is available at several locations, or from the author herself and from her daughter, Mrs. Maeris, at 931-2593, at a cost of $12.50 per copy.

For those interested in life in Illinois near the beginning of the 20th century, Mrs. Donaldson's book proves a goldmine of information. "You should read it if you want to know what people did 80 years ago," the author comments.

The book describes people and events in the period from 1900 to 1916 and "The Three of Us" used in the title refers to the author—Waverly Cecil Bolt—Donaldson—and her two brothers, Huntley Bolt and Velvie "Shad" Bolt.

It took Mrs. Donaldson 10 years to write the book, have it edited and then published.

She had no thought, at first, that her work would eventually be published. "I didn't write it for publication or to make money," she said.

"I just thought the grandchildren in time to come would be interested in it. I never gave a thought of it ever being printed," she added.

turned into a 135-page illustrated book.

"And, it's all fact, not fiction," the author states.

Mrs. Donaldson and her two brothers were orphaned at the age of 5, 6 and 7. Their mother died first and their father died a year later.

The children were reared by their grandparents, John Martin Bolt and Amanda Bolt.

Most of the writing of "The Three of Us" was done at night in Mrs. Donaldson's spare time and in her own words.

"I sometimes could cover 30 to 35 pages at one sitting. I really enjoyed it. People ask me how I can remember that far back, but I can," she commented.

She says people won't find anything fancy in her book, just the truth about the way things used to be. "This book is written in simple language that anyone can understand. Read it with an open mind," Mrs. Donaldson asks.

She has been married for 43 years to James Donaldson, a retired painter and paper hanger.

They have three children—Mrs. Maeris and Darlene Hourigan and Jimmy Donaldson, both of Vandalia.

The Donaldsons also have seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The author said that she "had to write fast, as fast as I could think." A niece, Lucille Jensen, typed the manuscript.

Mrs. Donaldson was 70 years old when she began writing the book. "It was a pleasure for me to find out I had the potential," she says.

One of the chapters in the book deals with a trip the Bolt youngsters made with their parents to AUTHOR. Mrs. James Donaldson of Vandalia, mother of Mrs. Nigel Maeris of Granite City, whose book, "The Three of Us—Our Growing Years," has been published.

Texas by wagon in 1902, and the family's adventures, including an encounter on a dusty narrow road with a wagonload of "scared people."

Mrs. Donaldson writes, "The house where we stopped and asked to stay a few days, was about equal to our barn or chicken houses in Illinois, but it was shelter from the burning sun. There was a cotton field at the side of the so-called yard. It was all sand."

Mrs. Donaldson believes she could write another book. "If I set my mind to it. But, it seems like getting it published is what wore me down."

"People say that three years the time it took her to get it published isn't that big a deal," she added.

It sounds as if she has serious notions about a sequel to her book "The Three of Us."

Seniors' Sweetheart Dance

The Granite City Park District and Granite City Township will sponsor a Seniors' Sweetheart Dance on Friday, Feb. 13 at the Granite City Township Center, 2060 Delmar Ave.

"Music for dancing will be played by the 'Variety Men,' a group from Columbia, Mo., from 7:30 p.m. until 10:30 p.m. Friday."

Free hotdogs, soft drinks and popcorn will be served during the evening and prizes will be awarded, the sponsors said.

Bus service will be provided Friday evening, but those desiring transportation are asked to call 877-4373 for arrangements.

In addition to the dance, other events will take place at the township center throughout Friday, it was learned.

The Happy Group Senior Club, meeting Thursday at the center, heard plans for this Friday's activities.

It was announced all senior citizens residing in Granite City Township are eligible to register at the township office prior to 10:30 a.m. Friday for the "Valentine King and Queen" contest.

Selection of the winning couple will take place at 11 a.m. Friday, followed by a regular mid-day luncheon and a social afternoon.

Also at the club meeting, the birthdays of Earl Marti and Velma Graun were noted and the 42nd wedding anniversary of Cleveland and Pauline Cox was observed.

Mrs. Lucille Pierce won a prize. The club planned a potluck dinner for Thursday, Feb. 19, starting at 1:30 p.m. A chicken entrée will be provided, but members are asked to bring a covered food item, cake or pie and individual place settings.

The event was changed from Feb. 12 (Lincoln's Birthday) when the township center will be closed, it was reported.

Promotion for Bader

Two appointments in the Traffic and Transportation Department of National Steel Corporation have been announced by John W. Westhouse, director of traffic and transportation. Effective immediately, they are:

David J. Rabbitt as supervisor of transportation analysis and former Granite Cityan Terry Bader as supervisor of freight rate information services.

Rabbitt previously was supervisor of traffic at National's Midwest Steel Division. In his new position, he will be responsible for analyzing and improving present and future transportation pricing structures affecting National Steel Corp.

Bader formerly was supervisor of freight rates at the company's Granite City Steel Division. He will now be responsible for the dissemination of all current freight rates for the corporation.

Both men will be located in Pittsburgh and will report to Robert J. Frey, manager of corporate freight rates.

LEGISLATIVE LEADER OF BUSINESS GROUP

Michael Donahue has been named director of Illinois governmental relations for the National Federation of Independent Business, a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization representing the viewpoint of a half-million small and independent business people across the U.S.

As director of governmental relations, Donahue heads NFI's office in Illinois and is in charge of the legislative program for the 17,350 NFI members in that state. He previously served as field representative for the Illinois Retail Merchants Association in Springfield.

National education test here

Granite City High School South will administer the National Educational Development Tests on Tuesday, Feb. 19.

The NEDT is a testing program that helps educators, parents and students plan together for the educational and vocational future of the students, Counselor Cheryl K. Evans said.

She added that sophomores with "B" averages or better can benefit from this test, which compares their educational development with that of other sophomores taking the test in high schools throughout the country.

"The test will not affect grades, but it will help the student, his parents and his counselor plan together to view his strengths and weaknesses. The NEDT also gives the student experience in taking a test very much like the pre-entrance examinations for college," she said.

The fee for the test is $2.50 and must be paid by Feb. 13. Money will be collected in the guidance office before school, during homeroom, and after school at South.

Area children creating original programs on cable TV channel

By LOUISE HAMLIN

In early November 1980, an informal group of friends (now called Rainbow Productions) decided to produce an alternative children's program on South-Western Cable TV Channel 1.

The name of our series is "Kids Are Special," and each program has its own special theme.

On Jan. 17, the final taping for the first of six planned programs was completed. "Winter Fantasy," our first program, was aired on Cable TV Channel 1 on Jan. 24 at 9 a.m. and will be aired for three consecutive Saturdays until our second program is completed.

We have three main goals which we touched upon in our first program. They are: (1) To educate the children in the South-Western viewer area. (2) To enhance creativity in these kids. And (3) to entertain them as well.

We plan to use many techniques in accomplishing our goals, some of which include safety and ecological awareness, tips on healthy living, drama, dance, field trips, and even some sign language.

But our most important feature, theme and attraction are the kids. They are not just who the program is for; they are the program. We have been working with about a dozen children from the Troy, Edwardsville, Maryville, Caseyville, Collinsville and Granite City areas.

We hope that, now that we have been on the air, there will be many more children in the area who would like to help in the creation of "Kids Are Special."

Being a newly-organized group with little funds to start with, we could have never begun had not Mary Hildebrand, community program coordinator of South-Western Cable TV, granted us the use of their studio and equipment in Maryville.

One would think that there is no stopping us now, but that's not entirely true. We could not continue without sponsorship from local businesses and townspeople.

Sponsorship does not have to be in the form of cash resources. We are also in need of donated materials including lumber, paint and fabric, and donated time for the construction of sets. We would greatly appreciate any help that the public could give us.

Since we feel that community input is necessary to make truly community developed programs, we invite any comments, ideas and suggestions that people may have concerning our first program.

Readers, thank you for your time and attention. In return, we pledge to continue to provide a fun, healthy alternative to today's children's media.

We can be contacted at 636-5706 or by writing to Rainbow Productions, c/o Louise Hamlin, 919 Hale Ave., Edwardsville 62025.

Base cost of operating SIUE will be reduced

The prospects of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in a period of budget reductions, program evaluations and commitment to community and regional service were detailed to the university community Thursday afternoon by President Earl Lazerson.

SIUE's chief executive officer, in his first address to the university as president, outlined the tight budgetary situation while setting a course of action for the future. He said his objective is to "enhance the exemplary record of service to our region already established."

President Lazerson acknowledged that institutional costs at SIUE are higher than the average for other universities in Illinois.

He said the university will be forced by the General Assembly and the Illinois Board of Higher Education to reduce its base budget by a total of $3.7 million in the next five years.

He said he believes the budget reductions can be managed while maintaining and even improving the quality of educational and other services.

Steps already taken in this direction include increasing efforts to attract and retain students, addressing previously unmet educational needs, and reallocating resources "to ensure that resources are directed to the elements of our mission in priority order."

Lazerson declared, "We cannot do everything that is done at every other university. But we can do, and do well, a variety of things essential to those we serve, and it is absolutely necessary that adequate resources support those activities."

Discussing program evaluations, Lazerson said there are a number of issues of even greater long-run significance than the current budget challenge.

"The most urgent academic task facing the university is the proposed revision of the general education program."

"Hard decisions on content and a structure for implementing the program must be made," he said. "Nothing will do more to shape the character and fate of the university for the foreseeable future."

Local man with rescue crew

Navy Aviation Electronics Technician Second Class Andy L. Knott, son of Jefferson C. and Thelma M. Knott of Granite City, recently participated in a rescue at sea.

He was the crew chief of a search and rescue helicopter dispatched from Helicopter Combat Support Squadron 16, based at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

His helicopter was dispatched to rescue the crew of another squadron helicopter that had caught fire, crashed and sank. The three survivors of the distressed helicopter grouped together and fired flares to aid the rescue helicopter in finding them.

When the survivors were spotted by the rescue helicopter, a swimmer was lowered into the water to provide aid to each survivor. The three were then hoisted aboard the rescue craft and flown to a nearby Navy hospital.

A 1974 graduate of Granite City High School South, Knott joined the Navy in January 1974.

"Traditional departmental and school structures must also be examined. They may no longer be the appropriate base from which a deepening of educational purpose and commitment takes place."

"Similarly, we need a review of our program inventory to judge if it is commensurate with the interests of our students and the needs of society," he added.

Reviewing areas where he feels progress has been made in the past year, Lazerson pointed to a new faculty development program, budget review efforts, salary plan recommendations, increased space for the music program, opening of a satellite dental clinic in East St. Louis, financial aid policy improvements, and more liberal tuition policy for graduate students living in Missouri in the St. Louis area, recruitment activities, and physical facilities planning.

The president announced that proposals for new policies lowering tuition for undergraduates living in the St. Louis area of Missouri will be submitted to the SIUE Board of Trustees for consideration this week.

He also expressed optimism that the proposed SIUE multi-purpose facility can be redesigned to come within the available budget without sacrificing essential programing functions.

Construction of a new educational facility for the School of Dental Medicine is critical to the future of the dental medicine program, Lazerson said. "It will take a concerted effort on the part of all those within the university community and beyond to bring this project to a successful close."

"At the East St. Louis Center, program development plans are being reviewed. It is my view that substantial opportunities for educational and public service work exist at the Center. Such programs will need to draw on the full strength of our faculty."

The president reviewed the administrative reorganization plan for the university, indicating that searches for a vice-president and provost and three of the new directors are in varying stages of progress.

The director of development and public affairs, Dr. James Buck, has already been appointed. Emphasizing a concept he has repeated often, Lazerson said, "We need to do much more in the way of making the university hospitable to all, but particularly to our newer student population—the handicapped, women and minority students."

Turning to public service and applied research, he urged a common school and university partnership program, increased regional economic development, and a partnership between business and industry and SIUE relative to applied science and technology. He said:

"The business of common school education is not solely the business of our School of Education. We all have a vital stake in making common school education work, and I can think of no more important contribution that the university can make."

"It is of vital importance that a coordinated effort be made in southwestern Illinois to promote the economic growth and vitality of the region. We need a partnership between local government, the state, planning agencies and others to achieve this. We need an overall plan that will, in the most effective way possible, bring all the resources of the university to bear upon regional economic development.

"Along with other area universities and colleges, we have large resources which can be utilized to enable business and industry to become more productive, to achieve amelioration of the current relations between regulatory agencies and the business community, and above all to aid in the general community understanding of public policy issues as they relate to science and technology."

"I call on each member of the university community to help carry the message of the value and worth of SIUE to those we serve."

"All of us can take pride in the fact that next year will mark our 25th year of educational accomplishment and service to citizens of southwestern Illinois."

"I ask you to join me in anticipation of our 25th anniversary, not only as a benchmark of our progress in time, but even more as an opportunity for rededication to the purposes for which our university was founded."

Move to crack down on drunk, drugged drivers

Chairman Sam Vadalande of the Motor Vehicle Laws Commission has announced that the commission has filed House Bill 163, which would substantially revise the present Illinois laws on driving while under the influence of intoxicants and on implied consent.

The bill's sponsors are representatives McAuliffe-Schraeder, Neff and Sam W. Wolf, all members of the Motor Vehicle Laws Commission.

Rep. Wolf of Granite City and State Senator Vadalande of Edwardsville are Democrats serving the 56th Illinois Legislative District.

Rep. Wolf, who was appointed to the commission on Jan. 1, 1981, said the major thrust of this amendatory proposal is to attempt to bring the Illinois Vehicle Code into conformity with the Uniform Vehicle Code (UVC).

The UVC is a specimen set of motor vehicle laws, designed and advanced as a comprehensive guide or standard for state motor vehicle and traffic laws. The President's Committee on Uniform Traffic Laws and Ordinances serves as the custodian of this code.

Sen. Vadalande stated the Motor Vehicle Laws Commission has just submitted a detailed report to the General Assembly entitled "Marijuana and Driving," indicating a critical need to start a deterrent program as soon as possible to deter "highly anti-social and hazardous misuse of driving privileges."

The only way to identify drugs in the body at the present time is through a blood analysis, and Illinois' present law requires the individual to submit to a breath test only.

He added that "39 jurisdictions, and the Uniform Vehicle Code, now include blood within the purview of their implied consent statute."

Rep. Wolf reiterated his belief that, "because of the tragic circumstances frequently associated with this type of an offense, Illinois needs to tighten up on the present law."

"We must attempt to make an impact on the deplorable statistic which shows that drinking and/or drugs are involved in 50 percent of our fatal traffic accidents."

Lincoln's birthday is holiday for some—area schools closed

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Only in Illinois. While the federal government and most states recognize George Washington's Birthday as a national holiday, Illinois prefers to recognize the birthday of famous native Abraham Lincoln.

Some governmental agencies, like the municipal government of Granite City, do not recognize either, preferring to "trade" the February holiday for a four-day holiday at Thanksgiving.

"This, in Illinois, the confusion over which offices are open and which are closed, is as much of a tradition as the Fourth of July." All Illinois schools and state offices, including the driver's license examining station and the Job Service and Bureau of Unemployment Services will be closed Thursday, while all federal offices will be open and will observe Washington's Birthday, Feb. 16 (even though Washington was born on Feb. 22).

On the other side of the coin (if you prefer Washington, use a quarter; if you prefer Lincoln, use a penny, since their likenesses are on those coins), federal offices will close Feb. 16, while state offices will be open. The post offices will be closed Feb. 16 and there will be no mail delivery that day.

Banks and savings and loan associations probably should celebrate Benjamin Franklin's birthday, since his likeness is on $100 bills, but have chosen, instead to link with the Federal Reserve Bank in celebrating Washington's Birthday Feb. 16. The financial institutions will be open Thursday.

Granite City officials will be open both birthdays as employees years ago traded a day off in February for the Friday after Thanksgiving, so they could have a four-day Thanksgiving holiday.

Granite City Township, however, obviously more patriotic to Illinois' favorite former president, will be closed Thursday for Lincoln's Birthday. There will be no noon meal served senior citizens on that day. Employees of Madison County do not need to worry about which day to skip. It's easy. They take both days off, as the courthouse will be closed Feb. 16 and 17. In Edwardsville, it also will be closed on Washington's traditional birthday of Feb. 22, since that is a Sunday.

In direct opposition is the Press-Record, which will publish on Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays. News never stops.

Some offices have decided to take the best of both worlds and remain open both birthdays, while still giving their employees a day off. They simply allow half the staff off Feb. 12 and the other half gets off Feb. 16.

So, no matter which ex-president's birthday you prefer to celebrate, the patriotic thing to do if you plan on shopping or conducting any business Feb. 12 or 16, is to save gasoline by telephoning first to determine whether or not that office or business is celebrating the same president's birthday as you are.

Life sure would be easier if Washington and Lincoln had been born on the same day.

Brusatti attains CPA certificate

Mark H. Brusatti, 2211 Manley Ave., has achieved a Certified Public Accountant certificate, based upon results of a state certification test. The examination was administered in November by the Committee on Accountancy at the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana.

Brusatti is a 1975 graduate of Granite City High School. He received a bachelor of science degree in accountancy in August 1980 at Northern Illinois University.

He is employed at the Lunemann Co., a St. Louis CPA firm. Plans are to retain as much of the historical flavor of the old theater as possible, while making it into a comfortable and modern ballroom.

The main room will seat approximately 1,000 persons while the lobby will be available for smaller gatherings, according to current plans.

Know your health norms

(American Medical Association)

How do you know when you're sick?

Foolish question. We feel bad when we're sick.

But there are degrees of illness, all the way from minor discomfort to severe illness.

Knowing what some of the body's norms should be will help in determining when the body is seriously off pattern.

Individual temperatures vary. A slight fever in one person may not be a fever at all in another. Temperatures and pulse rates are different for children and adults.

Rectal temperature usually is one degree higher.

To find out what is normal for you, take your temperature when you know that you are not sick, at the same time of day, each day for several days.

If your temperature varies slightly from 98.6, write it down by your name on the family medical chart, and on the medical ID card in your wallet.

Funds granted to cut heating cost

Governor James R. Thompson announced last week the U.S. Department of Energy has awarded the State of Illinois $15,064,000 to help low-income families reduce their heating costs.

"The weatherization program is designed to help low-income people, particularly the elderly and handicapped. Funds are provided for caulking and weatherstripping; for installing insulation, storm doors, and windows; and for making other minor repairs and improvements to reduce heat loss and conserve energy," Thompson said.

The money is part of the weatherization assistance for low-income persons program administered in Illinois by the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA).

An estimated 9,100 homes in Illinois will be weatherized through the program.

Officials of the U.S. Department of Energy said additional funds may be provided to Illinois by the end of the year, allowing additional houses to be weatherized.

Applications for weatherization assistance will be accepted by community action agencies, planning and development commissions and other social service centers throughout the state. To identify the administering agency in your area, call toll free, (800)252-8643.

Busy future planned for downtown theater

As first announced in Thursday's Press-Record, Washington Industries, Inc., has obtained a building permit from Granite City to install a new floor, at a cost of about $13,000, in the Washington Theater, 1332 Nineteenth St.

Additional plans for the building were announced during the weekend. Loren Worthen, business manager for the owners, Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk, Avery Schermer and Leo Wolf, has announced plans to turn the old theater building into a ballroom with facilities for bands, plays, dining and dancing, which may be used for wedding receptions, banquets, dinner parties, presentations and concerts.

L. Wolf Construction Co. plans to turn the present sloped theater floor into a three-tier floor. The top two tiers will be edged with wrought-iron railings and will be used for table seating. The bottom tier, closest to the stage, will be used for a ballroom-type dance floor, according to the plans.

The balcony will be retained, as will the murals, marquee and the old brass ticket office. Plans are to retain as much of the historical flavor of the old theater as possible, while making it into a comfortable and modern ballroom.

The main room will seat approximately 1,000 persons while the lobby will be available for smaller gatherings, according to current plans.

When completed, in May or June, the facility will be available for rent by groups and will be ideal for big bands, dinner theater productions and large gatherings, it was announced.

Student contributes to state history magazine

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

An article written by Larry Holder Jr., a student at Granite City High School South, appears in the February issue of Illinois History, a magazine for young people published monthly by the Illinois State Historical Library.

The February edition is devoted to Abraham Lincoln and contains a collection of stories dealing with different aspects of Lincoln's life from his days as a state legislator through his presidency.

The local student's article, titled "Internal Improvements for Illinois," concentrates on the Internal Improvements Act of 1837, which resulted from the need for better transportation within the state.

Holder writes in part— "Representative Abraham Lincoln, a Whig member of the Illinois Tenth General Assembly, was a strong proponent of the Internal Improvements Act of 1837."

"When pioneer farmers came to Illinois, they soon could produce more food than they needed. Efficient transportation was needed to move the produce to market, where it could be traded for goods which the farmer needed but could not grow."

Holder writes, "The legislature, attempting to save the internal improvements system and the State Bank, delayed enforcement of that provision of the law until 1840."

"Abraham Lincoln attacked the special legislative session in Springfield in 1840. When this session adjourned, the law requiring the State Bank to forfeit its charter was enforced, and the bank would close."

"Lincoln has been accused of giving Alton three railroads as compensation for not having the capital located there. Recent historians challenge these accusations. Since there is no concrete proof, the charges cannot be accepted as fact," Holder writes.

He goes on to explain the economic prosperity, but within three years had ruined the credit of the state and was the source of much controversy.

"The act provided that the improvements be financed by bonds issued by the State Bank of Illinois and other sources. The total cost of constructing the transportation projects, which included 1,341 miles of railroad track, was estimated to be nearly $10 million."

"The financial prospects of the Internal Improvements Act were threatened by the Panic of 1837. This panic ruined many banks, including those in Illinois."

"The State Bank of Illinois was forced to suspend specie payment, for it could not redeem its notes with gold and silver coin. Illinois law stated that if the State Bank suspended specie payments for more than 60 days it must go out of business."

Holder writes, "The legislature, attempting to save the internal improvements system and the State Bank, delayed enforcement of that provision of the law until 1840."

"Abraham Lincoln attacked the special legislative session in Springfield in 1840. When this session adjourned, the law requiring the State Bank to forfeit its charter was enforced, and the bank would close."

Holder concludes his article— "Although he was unable to keep the State Bank open long enough to accomplish the goals of the Internal Improvements Act of 1837, Lincoln helped to lay the cornerstone for our modern transportation system."

In researching the material for his article, the South High student studied various records and historical volumes, including "Accidents in the State of Illinois: The Prairie Years and the War Years" and the Illinois Fact Book and Historical Almanac by John Clayton.

Holder continues— "The Whigs planned to keep the legislative session alive by preventing a quorum, the number of legislators necessary to legally conduct business. Without a quorum, the session could not adjourn."

"To prevent the quorum, Lincoln and several other Whigs jumped from the window of the Methodist Church, where the session was being held. Lincoln forgot that he had already answered the roll call, and this effort was futile. The State Bank closed despite Lincoln's effort."

Holder concludes his article— "Although he was unable to keep the State Bank open long enough to accomplish the goals of the Internal Improvements Act of 1837, Lincoln helped to lay the cornerstone for our modern transportation system."

Pro, con of Medicare supplemental insurance

BY LT. GOV. DAVE O'NEAL

The two senior action centers operated through the Office of Lieutenant Governor have received a number of inquiries about "Medicare supplement insurance policies," also known as "Medi-Gap" insurance. This article answers some of those questions.

Q. What is a Medicare supplement insurance policy?

A. It is an optional insurance policy, sold only by private insurance companies, designed to pay some of the expenses not covered by the Medicare program.

Q. I thought Medicare supplement policies were government sponsored. Isn't that true?

A. No. These policies are not sold or serviced by the State of Illinois or the federal government. Agents who claim to be from a governmental agency should be reported to the State Department of Insurance.

Q. I am 64 and will retire soon. How can I tell if I will need an insurance policy to supplement my Medicare?

A. If you are covered by a group insurance plan, find out before you retire if this coverage can be continued or converted to Medicare supplement insurance.

Group insurance is sometimes less expensive and often provides more coverage than insurance purchased by an individual.

If you have Medicare but no other insurance, you have two choices. You can rely on Medicare for some costs and pay uncovered costs yourself, or you can purchase a Medicare supplement policy to pay some of the hospital and medical costs not covered by Medicare.

You have to decide for yourself which route to go, based on the state of your health and your ability to pay the premiums.

Q. Will a supplemental policy cover all expenses not picked up by my Medicare?

A. No. Just as Medicare does not pay for all medical expenses, so too do supplemental policies exclude some expenses.

According to the State Department of Insurance, some items often excluded from Medicare supplement policies are: private duty nursing, routine checkups, eyeglasses, hearing aids, dental work, cosmetic surgery, custodial care in nursing homes, psychiatric care and self-administered drugs.

Urban real estate seminar Feb. 20

The Center of Urban and Environmental Research and Services at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville (CUERS) will offer a seminar on "Urban Real Estate: Financial Feasibility of Retail Specialty Center," Friday, Feb. 20. The registration deadline is Feb. 9.

The one-day seminar will be held in the Maple-Dogwood Rooms of the University Center from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Registration is $20.

The seminar is the second in a series of sessions offered to the public on investment in urban properties, according to Robert Mendelson, associate professor of research in CUERS.

Speaker for the seminar will be Barnett B. Beliner, an architect, developer, and investor as well as a lessee for four enterprises in Boston's Faneuil Hall Marketplace, a waterfront redevelopment project.

The Greek Revival-styled Quincy market building, flanked by its two granite buildings, stretches out behind the historic Faneuil Hall, make up the marketplace. The purpose of the renovation project was to bring the area following years of neglect and decay. Faneuil Hall Marketplace is made up of specialty shops and offices, along with a multitude of "sidewalk" businesses and activities.

In his presentations, Beliner will discuss the business transactions of the marketplace renovation, exploring the characteristics of success which can be applied in other such restoration projects.

A portion of the seminar will also be devoted to an examination of Crimmon Galleria, a small retail center located near Harvard Square in Cambridge, Mass.

The third seminar in the series, tentatively planned for May 6, will focus on the federal tax impact on urban real estate decisions.

Instructor for the course will be Gaylon Greer, a professor of finance at De Paul University.

Additional information and registration may be obtained by contacting Robert Mendelson, Director of CUERS, at 451-9832 or by telephoning (618) 992-3052 on or before Feb. 9.

Gardening chores—even in February

By CHRIS DOLL

Area Garden Adviser

Gardening activities in February are directed more toward planning and preparation than to physically making a garden.

It is a good month to anticipate spring and all its gardening activity. Some of the fruit and vegetable garden items that can be done now are:

- Study seed and nursery catalogs. These publications are fine for dreaming and planning, and many are sources of specialty varieties not available in local stores.
- Collect soil samples for testing if your garden soil needs testing. Soil fertility changes slowly, so that testing every four or five years is adequate to check the levels of phosphorus, potassium and the pH.
- Inspect fruit plants for injury from rabbits and mice. Any feeding injury must be noted and steps taken to either protect the plants or the plant or eliminate the pest.
- Attend garden schools or meetings. Many county extension programs feature educational meetings on all horticultural crops. These offices also have publications on varieties and pests.
- Plan the garden for proper layout and scheduling of plantings and rotations. Many of the garden books have suggestions for planning order, row spacings, successive crops, and cultural systems that can be followed.
- Bring chive plants indoors for forcing. Chive plants left outdoors last fall can be potted as soon as the soil thaws and brought indoors for early use.

- Read about pruning of fruit plants before going to work. February and March are good months to prune most of the bush and tree fruits. Understanding plant growth and fruiting habits makes the pruning job easier.
- Make ready the greenhouse, hotbed, cold frame and other propagating structures.
- Sharpen the garden tools. If this job wasn't done last fall during the clean-up phase, do it now to avoid lost time when spring arrives.
- Local or purchase the equipment, fertilizers and pesticides that will be needed to maintain the garden this year.
- Collect scut wood for grafting of nut and fruit trees in April and May. Make cuttings from last year's growth, wrap in plastic, and store in the refrigerator until needed.
- Build or repair trellises for cane fruits and grapes. These structures should aid in improvement of the crop and should be maintained in good condition.
- Sow broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower and Brussels sprout seed indoors for early plants. It requires five to seven weeks for these seedlings to develop into suitable transplants, so count back from your normal time of planting to determine the best date for you.
- Begin spading the garden when soil conditions permit. This may permit early gardening when breaks in the muds for upcoming months.

Hope to reduce cars' air pollution in area

The board of directors of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council has adopted a resolution endorsing transportation control measures (TCMs) for submission to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The measures, to be added to both Missouri and Illinois air quality plans, include traffic flow improvements, and use of electric vehicles. Other items are increased use of ride-sharing van pooling public transit ridership, and use of park-and-ride lots.

The state air quality plans, known as State Implementation Plans, are designed to obtain a reduction in transportation related air pollution by 1987.

The adopted TCMs are intended to help local governments comply with federal clean air standards.

In a related item, the board also adopted a resolution to continue the Gateway Council's ride-sharing activities, which a spokesman said have proved to be an effective form of reducing transportation pollutants, as well as an energy-efficient form of transportation.

In other actions, the board:

- Reviewed and endorsed a request by the city of East St. Louis to the U.S. Department of Housing for an urban development action grant to assist in providing low-interest home improvement loans to homeowners in the area.

- Reviewed and endorsed a request by Madison County for urban development funds to assist in the development of a 230-room Hilton Inn at Eastport Plaza in Collinsville.
- Reviewed and approved a request by Jefferson County to use federal aid to urban system funds for improvement of Old Highway 141 south from the St. Louis County line to the vicinity of Romaine Creek Road.
- Reviewed and approved an application by the city of St. Louis to the Urban Mass Transportation Administration for a "demonstration grant" to develop a transportation brokerage management program. The program will seek to match service of transportation providers with demands of transportation users.

GC unemployment at 13.4 percent

Unemployment in Granite City remained higher than the county average during December, according to preliminary unemployment figures released Tuesday by Bob Worden of the Research and Analysis Section of the Illinois Job Service.

Preliminary December figures show that 13.4 percent of the Granite City work force was unemployed in December, up one-tenth of a percent from the 13.3 percent final unemployment rate in November.

A total of 2,409 eligible workers were without jobs in Granite City during December, while 22,982 were working, Worden explained.

Unemployment in Madison County rose by six-tenths of one percent, during December, from 10.6 percent in the November figures to 10.6 percent in the preliminary December figures.

County-wide, 97,516 persons were employed, while 11,529 were without jobs, according to the preliminary December figures.

Granite City's unemployment percentage led even East St. Louis, which showed an 11.8 percent unemployment rate in December, Belleville, with 12.5 percent unemployed, and Alton, with 12 percent seeking work.

St. Clair County had only a 9.1 percent unemployment rate in the December preliminary figures, but this is higher than the 8.7 percent unemployment in that county in the final November figures, Worden said. A total of 11,066 St. Clair County adults were without jobs, while 111,044 were working, the figures show.

January rainfall is below normal again

January rainfall in the Quad-City area set a record low in recent years with only .52 of an inch of precipitation recorded at the Chain of Rocks locks which maintains weather records for the Army Corps of Engineers.

The area fall was 1.46 inches below the already low normal of 1.86 inches for the January month and continues the pattern of the past year for below-normal rainfall. The area ended the 1980 year 10.64 inches below normal.

Rainfall in recordable amounts occurred on only four days of the month. These included .05 of an inch on Jan. 6; .05 of an inch on Jan. 20; .34 of an inch on Jan. 21 and one inch of snow which was recorded as .08 of an inch precipitation on Jan. 30.

A trace of rainfall, which is an amount so small to be recorded, fell on four days, with three of them recorded as traces of snow.

The total rainfall for January compares with January 1980 when a total of .78 of an inch was recorded. In 1979, the total rainfall for January was 2.35 inches; January 1978, 2.08 inches; January 1977, 1.02 inches.

Farm production cost $135 billion in '79

U.S. farmers spent over $135 billion in 1979 to produce crops, livestock and poultry, topping the previous year's $114 billion level, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Illinois Cooperative Crop Reporting Service, this averages over the nation's economy. He adds that all responses will be kept confidential and only state and national summaries are to be published.

Purchases of livestock and poultry at $21.5 billion, up 59 percent from 1978, were the major expenditures for farmers. Feed purchases followed at $18 billion, up 9 percent; farm machinery and equipment at $12.0 billion, up 11 percent; rent at $10.3 billion, up 11 percent, wages at $9.4 billion, down 8 percent and interest at $9.2 billion, up 23 percent.

During February and March, enumerators for the Illinois Cooperative Crop Reporting Service will interview a cross section of Illinois farmers as part of a nationwide program to determine 1980 production costs.

James R. Kendall, agricultural statistician in charge, points out that information about farm production outlays are important when comparing the farmers' well-being with that of other groups in the nation's economy. He adds that all responses will be kept confidential and only state and national summaries are to be published.

Less inflation, lower taxes are top goals of Senator Percy

BY SENATOR CHARLES H. PERCY
This is my annual report to Illinoisans. During the last Congress, 1979-80, I made 35 trips to Illinois for a total of 131 days. The 90 communities visited included Granite City.

The 97th Congress opened in January 1981 on a note of high expectation with a long agenda of challenging and pressing business.

Many items remain as pieces of unfinished business from the last Congress; other items appear as new entries for fresh consideration.

Regardless, the entire agenda will be tackled with a strong resolve mandated by the election of a President with a huge plurality who received 90.8 percent of the electoral college.

This year for the first time I attended both the presidential electors meeting in the state capital in Springfield, when Illinois' unanimous vote of 26 electors was cast for Ronald Reagan, and also the announcement of the Electoral College vote in the House of Representatives.

The economy lists the list of challenges on the Congressional agenda. Double digit inflation and interest rates, along with an unacceptable level of unemployment, make it imperative that we devote our energies to economic legislation.

This legislation should include a tax cut for both individuals and business.

Such tax relief, which I have long advocated, is overdue. It is an important element in our effort to restore the nation's economic health.

This package must include a cut in the capital gains tax from 28 percent to 20 percent, which would actually increase Treasury revenues, and something approaching 10-15 amortization and depreciation allowances for business to stimulate capital productivity-increasing investment.

Equally important is the need to limit federal spending and work toward a balanced federal budget. Efforts to reach these goals failed in the last Congress.

The Budget Committee should give serious consideration to the estimated $6.3 billion in budget expense reduction I favored and sent to it nine months ago. We simply must do a better job in this Congressional session.

The need to reduce the size and scope of government dictates a close scrutiny of federal regulation. Much of it is unnecessary and burdensome; some of it is important and helpful.

Nearly all of it is costly, making it mandatory that Congress assure the usefulness of federal regulation.

The Senate passed my regulatory reform proposal in 1978 but the House failed to act, despite support by the Business Roundtable, the National Association of Manufacturers, U.S. Chamber of Commerce and Common Cause. We will try again in the new Congress.

The economic challenges we face also require that we search for opportunities to cut waste in government.

In a time of record taxes and deficits, we must double our efforts to end the senseless waste caused by mismanagement of government programs.

In foreign policy we will seek to achieve a new credibility based on a healthy economy and a strong national defense.

This credibility will be reflected in a new attitude of respect for America by our allies and our adversaries.

Our work on behalf of the individuals and communities of Illinois will continue to be of the greatest importance in our Washington, Chicago and Springfield offices. Every member of the Percy staff puts high priority on this important aspect of our Senate work.

This report looks ahead to the new challenges of the 97th Congress. It also reviews the work of the 96th Congress.

+++ In accord with my pledge to the Illinois Municipal League last September, federal revenue sharing has been extended three years, assuring continuation of this successful program that I have backed throughout my 14 years in the Senate.

Revenue sharing is a most

cost-effective program that distributes $4.6 billion annually nationwide at a cost of one-tenth of one percent of the entire cost of the program to administer.

There will be a one-year interruption in revenue sharing for state governments, but the program will steadily continue to return tax dollars to local governments without interruption.

Public hearings were held in January in Illinois on the proposal to establish the first national park in our state along the Illinois-Michigan Canal and Des Plaines River valley corridor.

The Interior Department has been directed to study the 100-mile long corridor between Lake Michigan and LaSalle as a possible national park to preserve the natural and cultural value of the area.

Introduced John Block, director of agriculture in Illinois, to eight members of the Senate Agriculture Committee to ask for their support.

Subsequently, with the support of Senator Bob Dole, Block was named to the post of U.S. secretary of agriculture.

Block, who served as director of agriculture in Illinois for three years, is the owner of a 3,200-acre farm near Galesburg.

After considering studies by the federal government and a blue-ribbon panel of local experts, I concluded in December that a moratorium should be placed on all new construction on the controversial Chicago Tunnel and Reservoir Plan (TARP) until the sections now under construction are completed and tested, to be certain they perform as designed.

The project, designed to capture sewage and abate water pollution in the Chicago River system, would cost $1 billion if completed.

The citizens' task force which I appointed in April 1978 and the federal General Accounting Office concluded that alternative technology for flood and pollution control could have a significant impact at much less cost, and many years sooner, than the TARP approach.

Development of alcohol fuels; one of our top energy priorities in Illinois, promises to grow at a rapid pace in 1981.

Tax incentives for alcohol fuel production, which I proposed and eventually became law, have been a prime factor in this development.

Also, I have urged more efficient action by the Federal Home Energy Administration to distribute federal funds to encourage alcohol fuel production on a small scale.

Another effort to expand use of alcohol fuel was successful last year when the Post Office established test fleets of alcohol-powered cars in Springfield and Denver.

Fourteen Illinois communities received grants from the federal government last year for urban development.

These grants, which totalled $62.7 million, are awarded on a competitive basis throughout the U.S. through the Urban Development Action Grant program in the Department of Housing.

The grants were matched with $39 million in private investment, a cooperative effort that produced 7,472 jobs and new business activity in cities and towns.

Our Senate offices in Chicago and Springfield work closely with Illinois communities as they apply for these grants.

+++ The interests of Illinois will be a major part of my responsibility as the new chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. The Illinois holds a unique position as a state linked closely to the nation's foreign policy. As a result, this committee chairmanship provides a responsibility and opportunity to pursue the interests of Illinois in our country's relationship with other nations.

One opportunity for benefit to Illinois can result from this new committee post is based on Illinois' ranking as the number one agricultural exporting state in the nation.

One out of every three acres of land planted in Illinois produces crops for export. This huge agricultural market will continue to grow.

Pursuit of opportunities for expanded exports of our worldwide market will be high on my list of goals for work in the Foreign Relations Committee.

Illinois also ranks as the number two state in the nation in export of manufactured goods. This export activity accounts for one out of every eight jobs in Illinois, and has a potential for growth that is promising as the state's agricultural export market.

The agenda for action in the Foreign Relations Committee will include a wide range of issues that concern all Americans, particularly Illinoisans so dependent on raw materials and markets from abroad. Some of the most important issues of the 1980s, including the effort to limit strategic nuclear weapons, will be thoroughly discussed and debated.

Major topics in the Foreign Relations Committee this year will be the state of relations between the U.S. and Soviet Union, U.S. relations with our neighbors in Mexico and Canada, the search for a peaceful end to the Middle East that will assure the security of Israel, and the pursuit of cooperation between the U.S. and the People's Republic of China along with mutually beneficial contacts with the whole of Taiwan.

Chairing the committee will be an exciting new challenge. I look forward to this new role as a major opportunity to advance the interests of our state, its citizens and all Americans.

+++ There is absolutely no doubt that the need to act promptly to restore the nation's economic health is the number one priority of the 97th Congress.

Month after month of double digit inflation and interest rates made economic adversity a way of life for millions of Americans.

For nearly every American, these economic hard times make it more and more difficult to buy such essentials as food and fuel. Purchase of such major items as homes and cars is simply out of reach for most families. And while nearly everyone must cope to make ends meet, millions face the harsh reality of unemployment.

There is no escaping the fact that a large share of the blame for this economic stagnation rests squarely on the shoulders of the federal government in Washington.

In spite of the endless months of high inflation, soaring interest rates and unacceptable unemployment level, federal taxation and spending have been allowed to continue at record levels.

We can begin to break this vicious cycle of economic problems with tax cuts for individuals and business, along with a strict limit on federal spending.

The tax cut for individuals should be set at 10 percent. Business should receive a tax reduction for the purchase of buildings, equipment and vehicles. These tax cuts would put incentive back into the American economy.

For individuals, a tax cut would provide the incentive to work and to save. For business, a tax cut would provide the incentive to make investments that create jobs.

A strict limit on federal spending would reduce the share of our nation's wealth now consumed by government.

The limit should be set at a fixed percentage of the gross national product to make more money available in the marketplace for borrowing by individuals and business, increasing government.

Unreported tax cuts and a limit on federal spending on numerous occasions in the last Congress.

Those of us in the Senate who favored such action did not constitute enough votes to pass the measures. We will try again this year, and this time I am sure we will prevail.

We can fight inflation on another front by renewing the attack on federal regulation, which now costs more than $100 billion a year. Much of it is excessive and should be reduced or abolished.

My legislation to review the activities of major regulatory agencies will be reintroduced in this Congress, with chances for passage better than ever.

Along with regulatory reform, I will pursue other measures aimed at cutting the cost of government.

These include my bill that would cut billions from the federal deficit by collecting delinquent debts owed the government.

Another is my proposal to encourage federal agencies to share health care personnel and facilities.

Cutting inflation, taxes and spending will be my top priority. I believe we will see a new resolve in Congress for action to make our economy more vigorous and healthy.

Percy-Dixon bill would restrict grain embargoes

Senator Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) and Senator Alan J. Dixon (D-Ill.) last week introduced legislation that would place new restrictions on the embargo of agricultural exports for foreign policy or national security reasons.

The Agricultural Export Protection Act of 1981 would prohibit the embargo of farm exports to a particular country unless such an embargo was part of an across-the-board trade ban or had received prior approval by both houses of Congress.

"Never again would the farmers of America be singled out by the order of a president alone to bear an unfair share of the national burden made necessary by foreign policy or national security concerns," Percy said.

"There has been considerable controversy over whether embargoes succeed in the short term," Dixon commented. "Over the longer term, I think the answer is clearer. Embargoes are generally poor public policy."

The Percy-Dixon legislation is in response to the grain embargo against the Soviet Union ordered by Pres. Jimmy Carter in January 1980. The embargo, which was taken for both a foreign policy and national security concerns, followed the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

Carter ordered the embargo under the Export Administration Act of 1973, which provides a 30-day Congressional disapproval mechanism for a grain embargo invoked for foreign policy reasons. However, the president also ordered the embargo for national security reasons, which does not provide for Congressional review.

The Percy-Dixon bill requires prior approval of Congress for a grain embargo ordered for foreign policy reasons, unless the embargo is part of an across-the-board ban on all exports to a particular country. The bill would prevent embargo of grain exports for national security reasons.

Percy and Dixon praised the patriotism of American farmers, and pointed to farmers' concern for the current law that allows a restriction of their products but allows "business as usual" in the export of non-agricultural goods.

Pres. Ronald Reagan has not yet decided whether to continue the Carter embargo.

"YOU" CAN BE SURE WITH MAYOR "SCHULER!"

One of the best guides to use when judging a candidate is the saying - "LET'S LOOK AT THE RECORD". Having been Mayor for 2 full terms I feel that my record as an active, full time and available Mayor should be and is the basis of my candidacy for a 3rd term. The improved relationship between the Mayor and the City Council has brought about the revitalization of our City and the completion of many projects such as the following: 1. 19th Street Overpass, 2. Police and Civil Defense Facility, 3. New Township Building, 4. City Ambulance Service, 5. New Nameoki Fire Station, 6. Library Annex.

We have had industrial expansion which has been responsible for hundreds of new jobs brought about the use of industrial revenue bonds. A few of these are: 1. Michigan Metals, 2. Feralloy Corporation, 3. R.R. Leasing Incorporated, 4. Battery Recyclers of Granite City, 5. Precast Metals, 6. Granite City Steel Expansion, 7. Nestle Expansion, 8. Prairie Farms Expansion, 9. Air Products Expansion, 10. American Steel Expansion, 11. St. Elizabeth Hospital Expansion.

A 10 Million Dollar Mortgage Revenue Bond issue made available mortgage money to enable hundreds of our citizens to buy new homes.

RE-ELECT MAYOR PAUL SCHULER ... APRIL 7, 1981 ...

We have been able to bring the pay scale of our City employees more into line with salaries paid in private industries and thereby attract well qualified people to serve in City Government. At the same time, with the cooperation of the City Council and all Departments of the City, we have been able to hold any increase in taxes to a small percentage of the inflation rate of the last 8 years, thereby providing higher salaries and more services at little or no increase in local taxes.

The standard of living of our citizens who are on fixed incomes has always been one of my major concerns. Therefore, in cooperation with our Township Government we have used federal funds for the painting and insulation of numerous homes for senior citizens. Our CETA employees have been used to provide clean-up of senior citizens' property and to provide other services to them.

The revitalization of the downtown area has taken a major step forward by the starting of the 19th Street Overpass. Already business interests in West Granite are expanding and building other facilities due to the availability of the Overpass.

If I am privileged to be re-elected for a 3rd term I pledge to continue to devote my full time and efforts to the betterment of our City.

Paul Schuler, Mayor of Granite City

Dear Paul:
I enjoyed the Octoberfest very much. Not only was the music great but it afforded me the opportunity to meet with old friends of mine who are now retired from Granite City Steel.
It seemed to me that everyone who visited the park enjoyed it also. This idea of yours is such a great one. If I can be of any assistance in putting on future Octoberfests, please feel free to call upon me.

Dear Mayor Schuler,
I would like to take this time to thank you for the opportunity to work this past summer for the City of Granite City. Working on the Pointe Crew and the Engineering Department, will help me get by a little easier at school. I really appreciate the opportunity and if there is anything I can do, please let me know. Thanks again.

To Who It May Concern
Approximately 40 years ago a young girl was killed by a train while crossing the 20th street tracks in clear view of two (2) crossing guards. Sometime later a group of civic minded citizens circulated a petition, and I presented it to the city council requesting an overpass over the tracks. Several times since (3 times to be exact) we circulated petitions for the overpass but it took 40 years and 6 or 7 different mayors, until Mayor Schuler was elected before our dream of an overpass became a reality.

There were many disappointments, there were many crop hangers, a lot of paper work, but Mayor Schuler prevailed.

The tenacity and the determination that he has shown in this in other projects makes me believe that he deserves another term as mayor.

Sincerely,
Louis Cohen

To the Citizens of Granite City,
I would like to inform you of the strong Union support during his term of office. Paul Schuler and his administration has shown the union people in this city and also has worked hard for a union program that not only was a benefit to the union, but to 100% senior citizens and minority families whose homes were in dire need of painting. For these reasons, I am endorsing Paul Schuler for re-election as Mayor of Granite City.
